DEFIANT HOUSE REFUSES TO CUT BENEFIT FUNDS

Adds One Cent to Proposed Appropriation of $3,500,000 and Specifies It Must Go to Needy.

HARRIS REPULSED IN ECONOMY FIGHT

$350,000 More Than Was Spent Last Year for Benefits Is Voted.

A defiant house of representatives late yesterday refused to slash the $3,500,000 recommended appropriation for the payment of benefits to old people in Georgia.

To the contrary, it adopted an amendment adding exactly one cent to the committee-approved sum and specified that every penny of the $3,500,000.01 must be spent in matching federal funds to pay old age pensions and aid to the needy blind and dependent children.

Legislators rejected the leadership of Speaker Roy V. Harris on this matter, for Harris urged that it, like all other departments except the highway department, be cut 20 per cent.

The sum voted by the house, sitting as a committee of the whole, is $350,000 more than was spent for benefits last year.

The house then began work on a separate item for expense of administering social security benefits, a proposed $315,000 annually.

Police Captain Now, "Buck" Weaver Smiles

It's Captain Weaver now. W. M. (Buck) Weaver, former lieutenant in charge of the motorcycle division of the traffic bureau, smiles happily following his election to the rank of captain by the police committee. He succeeds to the post created by the recent death of Captain Starling J. Roberts, senior officer of the watch. Story on Page 3.

CIO STILL SILENT ON LABOR PEACE

Lewis Believed Irked by Green Terms; Wagner Act Hearings Held Up.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—John L. Lewis left labor leaders and government officials trying to guess tonight whether—and when—he would accept President Roosevelt's urgent request that he reopen labor peace negotiations with the American Federation of Labor.

Since the CIO leader received the President's "Dear John" letter Saturday, he has refused comment. Meantime, labor men around him have speculated on the possibility that the terms in which William Green, AFL president, announced his acceptance of the Roosevelt suggestions might have thrown new difficulties into the way of another peace conference.

Crux of Dispute.

The federation's structure and philosophy has, to a large extent, been the crux of the three-year-old dispute in the labor movement.

The CIO contends all workers in a single industry should be organized into one union. The AFL argues that organization should be by skills, or crafts.

Asks Committee.

Thomas also announced that he had suggested to Secretary of Labor Perkins that labor organization in establishing a seven-front on New to present a united "If nothing else questions, President's suggestions out of the conference between a peace factions," Thomas told a labor "something should be done, to ordinate their legislative activity.

VATICAN PREPARES TO GUARD NEWS OF NEW POPE'S NAME

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Rigid precautions were being taken today to assure no premature announcement of the selection of the new Pope's name or a garbled leak such as occurred 17 years ago.

A half hour before official announcement was made that Cardinal Ratti, the late Pope Pius XI, had been chosen an erroneous report was published that Cardinal Tacchi had been elected.

Conclave authorities were said to be determined that first news of the new Pope's name should come in the announcement "urbe et orbe"—to the city and to the world—over the Vatican radio and the new loudspeaker system in St. Peter's square.

Inspection of locks and barricades which seal the six-acre city where the conclave of cardinals to elect a new Pope begins Wednesday has been especially rigorous, Vatican circles said today.

98 Aboard Sealing Vessels Lost in Gale

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The crews of five Norwegian sealing vessels totaling 98 men were missing today in an Arctic gale. Fears were held that all may have lost their lives since no answer had been received to repeated urgent wireless messages from Coast Guard stations.

Caldwell, Bourke-White Are Married in Nevada

RENO, Nev., Feb. 27.—(UP)—Erskine Caldwell, 35, author of "Tobacco Road," and Margaret Bourke-White, 31, magazine photographer, were married late today after an aerial elopement from New York.

Caldwell was divorced in Maine last year. Miss Bourke-White said she was divorced in Ohio in 1931.

HIGH COURT RULES SIT-DOWN ILLEGAL, REVERSES NLRB

Three Labor Board Orders Set Aside, One in Part; Property Rights Cited in Decision by Hughes.

HAGUE ARGUMENTS ON APPEAL START

Frankfurter Delivers First Opinion, Invalidating Florida Import Fee.

By The Associated Press.

The supreme court took the following actions yesterday:

Denounced a sit-down strike as wholly illegal and "high-handed."

Set aside two labor board orders; upheld a portion of a third order while invalidating the rest of it.

Heard Justice Frankfurter deliver his first opinion, invalidating a Florida law imposing an inspection fee on imported cement.

Set aside a murder conviction against a Louisiana negro because negroes were excluded from the grand jury which indicted him.

Started hearing arguments on issues raised in Jersey City struggle between Mayor Frank Hague and CIO.

Held constitutional a 1935 Pennsylvania law regulating the milk industry.

Refused to review the conviction of 39 Fansteel Metallurgical Corporation employes for contempt of the Lake County, Ill., circuit court.

Declined to hear an appeal from an NLRB order directing reinstatement of 17 discharged employes of American Potash & Chemical Corporation, of Torna, California.

Refused to pass on a federal circuit court's decision that it had no power to halt picketing of a chain of stores in St. Louis.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The nation's highest court denounced the sit-down strike today.

Left 12 Years Ago To Get Job, Returns Without It

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. 27.—(AP)—This is the story Mrs. Florence Push told sheriff's deputies: Twelve years ago her husband, Nick, pushed himself away from the breakfast table and said he was going out to look for a job. He failed to return until the other night.

"Well, I didn't get that job; can I come in?" said Push when his wife opened the door. He insisted when she refused, so deputies she summoned jailed Push on disorderly conduct charges.

Meet the Champ! He Beats 4 Men, Ambulance Driver

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Mickey McCrorey, Deadwood, S. D., bulldogger here for Tucson's annual rodeo, was mistaken for an officious outsider by four townsmen.

In the ensuing first fight McCrorey proved his prowess outside the arena as well as in. He bested all four, including an ambulance driver who required the services of a physician.

'I Want To Be Punished,' Begg Drunk; Police Oblige

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Police Sergeant Barran lifted the telephone receiver last night and a voice demanded: "This is a taxpayer. Send a patrol wagon." He obliged. The "taxpayer" explained patiently, "I've had a few too many, and I want to be punished." Again the law obliged.

Congressmen Inspect the Arms of the United States

BRITAIN, FRANCE RECOGNIZE REBELS

Chamberlain Eager To Call Appeasement Par- ley When 'Time Comes.'

PARIS, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Great Britain and France accorded full recognition to Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Nationalist government of Spain today after a week end in which Madrid government leaders stated an armistice was being arranged to end the civil war.

First Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain announced to the British house of commons that the government had accorded recognition to the Burgos regime. Shortly afterward the French cabinet met with Premier Edouard Daladier and President Albert Lebrun and took similar action.

The joint decision meant that only the United States and Soviet Russia among the great powers now recognize the old government of Spain as the real government.

To Vacate Embassy.

The Madrid government's ambassador to Paris and his staff made it known they would formally vacate the embassy immediately upon official notification of the government's decision. The embassy was stripped of all records and personal belongings of its personnel, but furniture and decorations were left intact for the incoming Nationalist occupants.

The President of the old regime, Manuel Azana, already had gone into retirement at a small French town near the Swiss border, and publication of his resignation was expected momentarily.

(Chamberlain in his London announcement told commons that "there can be no doubt now of the ultimate issue of the struggle." He said General Franco had professed determination to "secure the traditional independence of Spain" and to call before Nationalist courts only those Madrid government followers "against whom criminal charges are laid."

Eager for Conference.

(Chamberlain said that he was eager to call an international conference for "removal of economic and political grievances" whenever such a discussion could be assured of "any chance of success." He said, however, that this time had not yet come and that "a considerable amount of preliminary preparation would be necessary."

He declared such a conference would work for "a settlement which includes limitation of armaments."

Free Cancer Home Opened By Catholic Society Here

Dominican Sisters, Servants for Relief of Incurables, Answer Call of Bishop O'Hara To Care for Hopeless Sufferers of the Disease in Atlanta.

By JACK J. SPALDING.

Hands forever dedicated to the service of the poor and the hopelessly ill are cleaning floors and unpacking furniture in Atlanta this morning, doing the thousand menial tasks incident to the opening of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Free Cancer Home.

They are hands made strong by ceaseless work and toil in the service of others. They are the hands of nuns who have given themselves to the cause of suffering humanity, and living with death to all in their power to bring peace and comfort to the last days of those whom science has given up.

They are the hands of the Dominican Sisters, Servants for the Relief of Incurable Cancer, who have come here at the invitation of Bishop O'Hara to minister to the wasted bodies of hopeless cancer cases, past the help of doctors, and whose families are too poor to care for them.

They have established themselves in the old Hebrew Orphans' Home on Washington street, the scene of charitable work since its construction many years ago.

There are 11 sisters there now, supervising the necessary work, and doing much of it themselves. The first group arrived here last Tuesday morning. The next morning, Ash Wednesday, mass was celebrated for the first time in the sisters' chapel, the old auditorium of the building.

There are only two requisites for admission to the home: (1) The patient must have an incurable case of cancer, and (2) be too poor to pay for hospitalization elsewhere, or for proper care at home.

Though all the work of the institution, the nursing, the cooking and the washing will be done by sisters of a great Catholic order, the matter of a person's religion is never considered. The home will be operated for anyone who can fulfill the conditions of admission, regardless of creed, or the lack of it. A special wing of the building has been set aside for negro patients.

Fifth Established.

The house of Our Lady of Perpetual Help is the fifth house to be established by the order. The others are in New York city, Philadelphia, Fall River, Mass., and in Hawthorne, N. Y. The institutions are entirely supported by voluntary contributions of the public. Dedication ceremonies will take place tomorrow.

SHARP REVISION TO BRING LARGE TRADE INCREASE

Report of Commissioner and Examiner Calls Rates 'Unreasonable'; Rivers Hails 'New Era.'

'U. S. BOARD SURE TO ADOPT CHANGES'

Judge Watkins Declares Shippers Will Be Saved $30,000,000 Yearly

By L. A. FARRELL.

The south took a long forward step toward the victory line in its fight for railroad freight rate parity yesterday when a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission and a commission examiner recommended to the ICC that rates on commodities be revised downward, an action which officials said would mean the addition of $100,000,000 in new business to the area.

The report termed "unreasonable" discriminatory rates with which it dealt and was interpreted to take for granted that reforms of the situation would follow as a matter of course, either by direct action of shippers or through intervention of the commission.

Governor Rivers, as chairman of the Southeastern Governors' Conference which is leading the fight for rate equality, said he felt certain the ICC would adopt the report.

"The sweeping changes urged by the commission member and its examiner uphold every contention made by the south," the Governor said. "It looks like we are on the threshold of a new and greater era for the south."

Judge Edgar Watkins Sr., chief counsel for the governors' conference, said that adoption of the ICC report not only would mean an additional $100,000,000 a year in new business to the south but also will save shippers between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 a year on the business they now have.

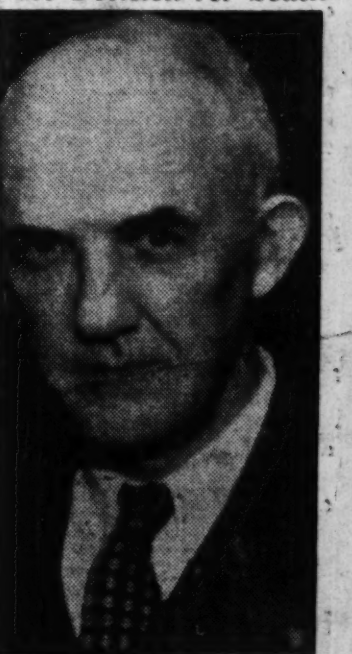

Natural Resources.

"In time the action of the ICC will raise the per capita income of the south to that of the north," Judge Watkins said. "We have been favored heretofore with better natural resources, better climate and better working conditions. We have been held back only by these discriminatory freight rates. We can go forward once the ICC adopts the report made to it."

Judge Watkins said that while the report covered only about one-fifth of the commodities moving

Pink Boll Worm Termed Menace to World's Cotton

State Entomologist Yeomans Warns That Most Destructive Cotton Pest Is Getting Out of Control; Non-Staple Zone Recommended.

A warning that the pink boll worm apparently is getting out of control and might become an international menace was sounded yesterday by Manning S. Yeomans, chairman of the national plant board.

Yeomans, state entomologist, cited a resolution adopted at Tampa last week by the cotton states branch of the American Association of Economic Entomologists, reporting the worm in Mexico, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and Florida.

The Tampa branch meeting urged congress to authorize the United States Department of Agriculture to work with the Mexican government "to determine if it is feasible to eradicate the pink boll worm from the North American continent, and, if so, to work out a program."

The pink boll worm, considered the most destructive insect attacking cotton, cannot be controlled by insecticide, Yeomans said, and a two-year establishment of a non-cotton zone was recommended.

Such a method completely eradicated an infestation in Berrien county, Georgia, in 1933. A moth whose primary host is cotton, the boll pest emerges in the spring from over-wintering larvae. The moths live only a few days after emerging and if there is no cotton in fruit they die.

During the growing season when cotton is fruiting and the worms are in the bolls, squares or blooms, entomologists say "there is absolutely nothing that can be done that will have any effect upon the infestation."

Hence they are seeking to put the emphasis upon preventing the spread of an infestation centering on the Brownsville, Texas; Matamoros, Mexico area. With most of the prevailing winds in a northward direction, plant men fear the plague may be spread fanwise into the main cotton belt.

REORGANIZATION IS U. S. TEST-ICKES

The Way Congress Meets Issue Will Shape Our Future, He Says.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes said tonight the way congress "meets" the issue of government reorganization this year "will indicate how our government is going to meet the critical problems of the next few years."

Recalling congress' refusal last year to grant the President's request for authority to reshape executive departments, the Interior Department chief declared "the crisis which impends in our social and economic order" rises above party or party faction.

Ickes addressed the American Association of School Administrators. He told the educators the United States "cannot survive indefinitely, as a self-governing republic, with our government reduced to a paralyzed inertia by a sinister propaganda whose aim is national confusion and governmental prostration."

"This is a time when Democracy is put to a severe test, to prove its ability to function in a world of new problems and fast-moving events," he said. "We cannot go forward, politically or economically, in the kind of world that we live in, leaving our destinies to the negative decrees of those who have closed their eyes to the problems of the nation. We cannot stand still in the world of today."

"No matter what political party comes into power, no matter what group rises to control within a political party, the crisis which impends in our social and economic order rises above that party, above that faction."

He declared that the employer could discharge the "wrongdoers" without violating the Wagner Act, his opinion invalidated an order by the National Labor Relations Board requiring the company to reinstate employees who were dismissed when they seized key buildings of the corporation.

The Labor Board had contended that the strike resulted from violations of the Wagner act by the employer, including refusal to bargain collectively.

Besides delivering this sharp blow to the Labor Board, the court set aside two other board orders for reinstatement. One involved the Sands Manufacturing Company, of Cleveland, and in this case the supreme court held that employees who strike in violation of a contract sever their relations with their employer.

The tribunal ruled also that the Labor Board had not substantiated a charge that the Columbian Engraving and Stamping Company, of Terre Haute, Ind., had refused to bargain collectively with its employees. An order for reinstatement of those discharged was set aside.

The court supported a board order that the Fanteel Company withdraw from the National Metal Workers of America, Local No. 1. The tribunal agreed with the NLRB that Fanteel had violated the labor act in refusing to bargain collectively with the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America.

"But reprehensible as was the conduct of the respondent," (Fanteel) Hughes wrote, "there is no ground for saying that it made respondent an outlaw or deprived it of its legal rights to the possession and protection of its property."

The chief justice said the strike was "illegal in its inception and prosecution."

Acts of Violence. "This was not the exercise of the right to strike," he added. "It was an illegal seizure of the buildings in order to prevent their use by the employer in a lawful manner and thus by acts of force and violence to compel the employer to submit."

When the employees resorted to that sort of compulsion they took a position outside the protection of the statute and accepted the risk of the termination of their employment upon grounds aside from the exercise of the legal right which the statute was designed to conserve.

Justices Reed and Black dissented in each of the three decisions against the Labor Board. Justice Frankfurter, a new member of the court, did not participate in these decisions.

Justice Roberts, in his majority opinion in the Sands case, upheld the company's contention that violation of a contractual provision not to strike severed the employment relation.

He said that when negotiations between the company and the Mechanics Educational Society of America (MESA) broke up and the factory was closed, the "respondent rightly understood that the men were irrevocably committed not to work in accordance with their contracts."

"It was at liberty," Roberts continued, "to treat them as having severed their relations with the company because of their breach and to consummate their separation by hiring others to take their places."

"The act," Roberts continued, "does not prohibit an effective discharge for repudiation by the employer of his agreement, any more than it prohibits such discharge for a tort committed against the employer."

Justice Reed, dissenting in the Fanteel case, asserted the issue was:

"Can an employee on strike, or let out by an unfair labor practice, be discharged finally by an employer so as to be ineligible for and ruled that workers who seize their employer's factory have placed themselves outside the protection of the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, reading a majority opinion, declared that a sit-down in the Fanteel Metallurgical Corporation of North Chicago, Ill., two years ago was a "high-handed proceeding without a shadow of legal right."

Declaring that the employer could discharge the "wrongdoers" without violating the Wagner Act, his opinion invalidated an order by the National Labor Relations Board requiring the company to reinstate employees who were dismissed when they seized key buildings of the corporation.

SIT-DOWN STRIKERS OBEY NEW RULING

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 27. (UP)—Approximately 400 sit-down strikers of the aircraft division of the Bendix Corporation left the plant in mid-afternoon today, shortly after they were informed of a supreme court decision ruling sit-down strikes illegal.

reinstatement under the act?" "Disapproval of a sit-down strike," Reed continued, "does not logically compel acceptance of the theory that an employer has the power to bar his striking employee from the protection of the labor act."

"As now construed by the court, the employer may discharge any striker, with or without cause, so long as the discharge is not used to interfere with self-organization or collective bargaining."

Circumstances Govern. He said the majority had made the point that an employer "should not be compelled to re-employ an employee guilty, perhaps, of sabotage."

"This depends upon circumstances," Reed said, adding that it was the function of the labor board to "weigh the charges and countercharges and determine the adjustment most conducive to industrial peace."

"Courts certainly should not interfere with the normal action of administrative bodies in such circumstances," he asserted. "Here both labor and management had erred grievously in their respective conduct."

"It cannot be said to be unreasonable to restore both to their former status."

Today was the first session of the supreme court since the retirement of February 13 of Justice Brandeis. Justice Frankfurter, President Roosevelt's newest appointee to the tribunal, recited the first decision he had written since assuming in January the seat made vacant by the death of Justice Cardozo.

Cement Imports. In the court held unconstitutional a Florida law which imposed an inspection fee on imported cement. A three-judge federal court previously had enjoined the state from enforcing the statute.

Blimey Trading, Inc., of New York, had protested the law and Frankfurter said it "would not be easy to imagine a statute more clearly designed than the present to circumvent what the commerce clause (of the constitution) forbids."

The high tribunal sent back to the Louisiana state supreme court the case of Hugh Pierre, a negro sentenced to death for murder. It said negroes had been excluded from the grand jury which indicted Pierre.

Justice Black wrote the opinion, holding that the state court "was in error both in affirming the conviction of petitioner and in failing to hold that the indictment against him should have been quashed."

Appeal Declined. The court declined to pass on an appeal by 39 employees of the Fanteel Corporation who were convicted of contempt of the Lake county, Illinois, circuit court, after they defied an order to evacuate the Fanteel plant during the 1937 sit-down strike.

The strikers had contended the state court did not have jurisdiction, asserting the Wagner act had "pre-empted the field of labor regulations" for the federal government.

The court refused also to review an appeal by the American Potash and Chemical Corporation, of Trona, Cal., from a NLRB order to reinstate 17 discharged workers. The company contended the board did not have jurisdiction and that a "full and fair hearing" had not been granted.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Commenting on the supreme court's condemnation of labor's sit-down tactics, Representative Ramspeck, of Georgia, today said he was "glad to see the court put a stamp of disapproval on sit-down strikes."

"I have never approved them and I believe it was folly for labor to resort to them," he added. "It did more to discredit labor than any one thing."

CO-ED AND GRID STAR FOUND DEAD IN CAR

Girl Reported Strangled; Grand Jury To Probe Conditions at School.

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Ruth Virginia Underwood, 17, was found strangled to death today in an automobile beside the body of her beau, William Engimann, 18.

Coroner Brandon said he would investigate whether her death was a "sex murder."

He announced he would ask the grand jury to investigate not only her death, but conditions at the high school, where she was a student and Engimann was co-captain of the football team.

Miss Underwood had been dead several hours longer than her sweetheart, Brandon reported. He said Engimann died from carbon monoxide poisoning.

When the bodies were discovered in a park this morning by a searching party which included Engimann's father, the girl was attired only in shoes and stockings. Engimann and Miss Underwood had been going together for several months. They left home last night bound for a movie.

JOHN FARNSWORTH APPEALS SPY TERM

Bulky Transcripts of Second Effort To Be Free Sent to New Orleans.

Bulky transcripts of the record of John Semar Farnsworth's last unsuccessful attempt to free himself from the federal prison by a writ of habeas corpus were mailed yesterday to the United States court of appeals, fifth circuit, in New Orleans.

Farnsworth's second try for release was emphatically refused last month by Federal District Judge E. Marvin Underwood. The prisoner's attorney, George S. Hawke, of Cincinnati, soon appealed the decision. Judge Underwood's first refusal to grant the former naval officer his freedom was upheld by the appellate court. The prisoner is serving a four-

15 Days Are Left For Tax Returns

Taxpayers have 15 more days in which to make their 1939 tax returns without penalty, city tax assessors warned yesterday.

Testimony introduced by Assistant United States Attorney H. H. Tisinger showed that Farnsworth flipped a coin to decide what plea to enter.

Pink Boll Worm Termed Menace to World's Cotton

State Entomologist Yeomans Warns That Most Destructive Cotton Pest Is Getting Out of Control; Non-Staple Zone Recommended.

A warning that the pink boll worm apparently is getting out of control and might become an international menace was sounded yesterday by Manning S. Yeomans, chairman of the national plant board.

Yeomans, state entomologist, filed a resolution adopted at Tampa last week by the cotton states branch of the American Association of Economic Entomologists, reporting the worm in Mexico, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and Florida.

The Tampa branch meeting urged congress to authorize the United States Department of Agriculture to work with the Mexican government "to determine if it is feasible to eradicate the pink boll worm from the North American continent, and, if so, to work out a program."

The pink boll worm, considered the most destructive insect attacking cotton, cannot be controlled by insecticide, Yeomans said, and a two-year establishment of a non-cotton zone was recommended. Such a method completely eradicated an infestation in Berrien county, Georgia, in 1933.

A moth whose primary host is cotton, the boll pest emerges in the spring from over-wintering larvae. The moths live only a few days after emerging and if there is no cut in fruit they die.

During the growing season when cotton is fruiting and the worms are in the bolls, squares or blooms, entomologists say "there is absolutely nothing that can be done that will have any effect upon the infestation."

Hence they are seeking to put the emphasis upon preventing the spread of an infestation centering on the Brownsville, Texas; Matamoros, Mexico area. With most of the prevailing winds in a northward direction, plant men fear the plague may be spread fanwise into the main cotton belt.

REORGANIZATION IS U. S. TEST—ICKES

The Way Congress Meets Issue Will Shape Our Future, He Says.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes said tonight the way congress "meets" the issue of government reorganization this year "will indicate how our government is going to meet the critical problems of the next few years."

Recalling congress' refusal last year to grant the President's request for authority to reshape executive departments, the Interior Department chief declared "the crisis which impends in our social and economic order" rises above party or party faction.

Ickes addressed the American Association of School Administrators.

He told the educators the United States "cannot survive indefinitely, as a self-governing republic, with our government reduced to a paralyzed inertia by a sinister propaganda whose aim is national confusion and governmental prostration."

"This is a time when Democracy is put to a severe test, to prove its ability to function in a world of new problems and fast-moving events," he said. "We cannot go forward, politically or economically, in the kind of world that we live in, leaving our destinies to the negative decrees of those who have closed their eyes to the problems of the nation. We cannot stand still in the world of today."

"No matter what political party comes into power, no matter what group rises to control within a political party, the crisis which impends in our social and economic order rises above that party, above that faction."

MYSTERY CLOAKS DANCER'S SLAYING

Police Search Love Notes To Identify Boy Friend; Jealousy Hinted.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Anya Sosoyeva, slain Russian dancer, lived as she died, surrounded by mystery.

As police sought today to find where she was the 30 minutes before she was fatally bludgeoned on the Los Angeles City College campus last Saturday night, Fred J. Susoff told the officers his sister, born Nina Susoff, kept details of her life hidden from her family.

Detectives said they believe Miss Sosoyeva, who had been attending dramatic classes at City College, may have been struck down by a jealous suitor who held a grudge against her, or by a sex fiend who waited for some unprotected woman to walk by his hiding place.

They searched her love letters, snapshots and other personal belongings in an effort to find more about her men friends. Officers also began a roundup of 15 men who had been questioned previously in connection with similar assaults on women.

maments and removal of all barriers to international trade.)

An end of the 31-month-old Spanish civil war, which has taken more than 1,000,000 lives, was heralded Saturday when the Madrid government spokesman in Paris disclosed that armistice arrangements were being made. This was to allow evacuation of military and political leaders from the Madrid-Valencia zone.

Unless there is a change in leadership in the government territory, it was said, the armistice will be followed by a mass surrender which would allow the Nationalist army to march into Madrid and other cities still in government hands.

Government territory now comprises about one-fourth of continental Spain, with Madrid, Valencia and Alicante the principal cities.

U. S. RECOGNITION OF FRANCO SEEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Eventual United States recognition of General Franco's government appeared inevitable tonight.

However, officials, after receiving dispatches announcing Britain's and France's recognition, said this government would not rush its action.

Secretary Hull said he was giving attention to all aspects of the question and would neither neglect nor hurry his step. President Roosevelt, he added, is being kept informed.

Hull made this statement in his press conference after talking for 40 minutes to Spanish Ambassador Fernando de Los Rios. The latter told correspondents that the government of Premier Negrin was still functioning and that he himself was still ambassador.

SIT-DOWN ILLEGAL, HIGH COURT RULES

and ruled that workers who seize their employer's factory have placed themselves outside the protection of the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, reading a majority opinion, declared that a sit-down strike is not a labor dispute within the meaning of the National Labor Relations Act.

The Labor Board had contended that the strike resulted from violations of the Wagner act by the employer, including refusal to bargain collectively.

Besides delivering this sharp blow to the Labor Board, the court set aside two other orders of the National Labor Relations Board requiring the company to reinstate employees who were dismissed when they seized key buildings of the company.

The Labor Board had contended that the strike resulted from violations of the Wagner act by the employer, including refusal to bargain collectively.

The tribunal ruled also that the Labor Board had not substantiated a charge that the Columbia Enameling and Stamping Company of Terre Haute, Ind., had refused to bargain collectively with its employees. An order for reinstatement of those discharged was set aside.

The court supported a board order that the Fansteel Company withdraw recognition from the Rare Metal Workers of America, Local No. 1. The tribunal agreed with the NLRB that Fansteel had violated the labor act in refusing to bargain collectively with the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America.

"But reprehensible as was the conduct of the respondent," (Fansteel) Hughes wrote, "there is no ground for saying that it made respondent an outlaw or deprived it of its legal rights to the possession and protection of its property."

The chief justice said the strike was "illegal in its inception and prosecution."

Acts of Violence. "This was not the exercise of the right to strike," he added. "It was an illegal seizure of the buildings in order to prevent their use by the employer in a lawful manner and thus by acts of force and violence to compel the employer to submit."

"When the employees resorted to that sort of compulsion they took a position outside the protection of the statute and accepted the risk of the termination of their employment upon grounds aside from the exercise of the legal rights which the statute was designed to conserve."

Justices Reed and Black dissented in each of the three decisions against the Labor Board. Justice Frankfurter, a new member of the court, did not participate in these decisions.

Justice Roberts, in his majority opinion in the Sands case, upheld the company's contention that violation of a contractual provision not to strike severed the employment relation.

He said that when negotiations between the company and the Mechanics Educational Society of America (MESA) broke up and the factory was closed, the "respondent rightly understood that the men were irrevocably committed not to work in accordance with their contracts."

"It was at liberty," Roberts continued, "to treat them as having severed their relations with the company because of their breach and to consummate their separation from the company's employment by hiring others to take their place."

"The act," Roberts continued, "does not prohibit an effective discharge for repudiation by the employee of his agreement, any more than it prohibits such discharge for a tort committed against the employer."

Justice Reed, dissenting in the Fansteel case, asserted the issue was:

"Can an employee on strike, or let by an unfair labor practice, be discharged finally by an employer so as to be ineligible for

SIT-DOWN STRIKERS OBEY NEW RULING

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 27. (UP)—Approximately 400 sit-down strikers of the aircraft division of the Bendix Corporation left the plant in mid-afternoon today, shortly after they were informed of a supreme court decision ruling sit-down strikes illegal.

Reinstatement under the act?"

"Disapproval of a sit-down strike," Reed continued, "does not logically compel acceptance of the theory that an employer has the power to bar his striking employee from the protection of the labor act."

"As now construed by the court, the employer may discharge any striker, with or without cause, so long as the discharge is not used to interfere with self-organization or collective bargaining."

Circumstances Govern. He said the majority had made the point that an employer "should not be compelled to re-employ an employee guilty, perhaps, of sabotage."

"This depends upon circumstances," Reed said, adding that it was the function of the labor board to "weigh the charges and countercharges and determine the adjustment most conducive to industrial peace."

"Courts certainly should not interfere with the normal action of administrative bodies in such circumstances," he asserted. "Here both labor and management had erred grievously in their respective conduct."

"It cannot be said to be unreasonable to restore both to their former status."

Today's was the first session of the supreme court since the retirement February 13 of Justice Brandeis. 'Business Asks Square Deal'

Charles R. Hook, N.A.M. Official, Offers Program for Government-Industry Co-operation.

What business seeks now is a "Square Deal," Charles R. Hook, president of one of the nation's largest steel corporations and chairman of the board of directors of the National Association of Manufacturers, declared yesterday, addressing a capacity audience of Atlanta Rotary Club members.

Introduced at the luncheon in the Capital City Club by local President Howard See, Hook was termed an outstanding figure "in the general reconciliation between business and government." He spoke on "The Needs of Business."

"Industry seeks the co-operation of all the elements of our society—the public, agriculture, labor, and the government—in supplying the missing link to produce prosperity in this country," he said. "And needless to say, that link is confidence."

Attacks Tax Policy. Scoring the present trend of the government in entering into competition with private enterprise, Hook declared that "We cannot progress under an economic experiment that contains participation in business."

"The present administration tendency to tax business for regulatory rather than revenue purposes was severely criticized. 'No one objects to paying necessary taxes to meet the legitimate purposes of government. But better government at less cost would be a magnificent contribution to recovery,' he said."

Hook advised that every business executive ask himself the question: "What am I doing for my community?"

"For," he said, "if our economic or political viewpoint is to receive a sympathetic hearing, we must first win the respect and confidence of the various groups in our community life."

Should Really Lead. Business leaders should really lead, Hook said. "If we sit back in our chairs and fail to give the leadership of which we are capable, then we should not blame the people if they seek leadership elsewhere," he said.

Five suggestions for returning prosperity and turning the trend toward progress were offered:

1. "Let governmental and industrial emphasis be placed upon increased production, for it is the total production of goods and services which determines the standard of living."

2. "The constant encroachment of government competition upon private enterprise must be eliminated."

3. "Our present tax structure and taxing methods are in need of a complete overhauling. I suggest that the President appoint a commission of qualified legislators and informed laymen to study the whole field of taxation. A little less emotional and a more practical approach to the problem is imperative."

Need Fair Labor Policy. 4. "We need in the United States a national labor relations policy based upon the American conception of fairness and commonsense. A policy that encourages industrial peace and discourages the use of force and arbitrary methods. And even more than needing laws, we need a better understanding."

5. "Finally, we need to give American business a chance to operate under a Square Deal. We cannot regain prosperity until we put our 9,000,000 unemployed back to work."

Our goal must be a better America and a decent standard of living for all citizens, he said. "And that objective will not be attained by taking away from those who have and giving to those who have not."

GOLDEN WEDDING DAY. AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 27.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Pollock, prominent Augustans, observed their golden wedding anniversary today with an informal open house during the day and reception tonight.

SCHOOL ECONOMY TO BE DISCUSSED

'Can We Afford It?' Subject Planned Over WGST.

One of the most critical problems now facing the Georgia legislature will be the subject of a round-table debate Wednesday night on the Georgia Tech program on WGST from 10 to 10:30 p. m. With four informed participants to discuss the question, the subject, "Can We Afford It?" will be thoroughly analyzed.

Members of the legislature, especially informed of this program, are at present considering an economy in the common schools.

Participants in the discussion will be Ralph Ramsay, secretary of the Georgia Education Association; F. Devereaux McClatchey, member of the Atlanta Board of Education; James Tipton, assistant treasurer of Georgia Tech, and John A. Griffin, radio director at Tech, who will be leader of the discussion.

Motorcycle Squad Officer Becomes Captain; C. L. Heath Succeeds Him.

Lieutenant W. M. (Buck) Weaver, in command of the motorcycle squad of Atlanta police, was elected last night by the police committee to succeed to the vacancy created by the recent death of Captain Starling J. Roberts, senior officer of the watch.

Captain Jack Malcom, who applied for a transfer from the traffic bureau, of which he has been head for the past several years, will remain in that capacity.

Named to succeed Captain Weaver as lieutenant of the motorcycle division was Patrolman C. L. Heath. The appointments were made on recommendation of Chief Hornsby and were unanimous.

The committee also appointed D. C. Taylor, a supernumerary, as a regular patrolman to fill the vacancy created by the elevation of Heath, and named Durrell Fullum, supernumerary, as a plainclothes man to succeed Detective G. Fred Battle, who recently resigned from the department.

Under Weaver's supervision and with the co-operation of his immediate superior, Captain Malcom, the motorcycle squad of the department has been developed into one of the most efficient agencies of the city law enforcement organization.

Captain Weaver joined the police department as a patrolman on August 9, 1921. He soon was transferred to the traffic division, and on August 22, 1925, was named sergeant of police. When this office was abolished by action of city council in the same year, he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant.

He will be assigned to the day watch, the post occupied by Captain Roberts at the time of his death.

Lieutenant Heath has been a member of the department since 1931, joining the force in October of that year. The major part of his service has been in the traffic division.

ELKS ANNOUNCE PATRIOTIC PLANS

To Present Programs During Americanism Week.

Atlanta Lodge No. 78, B. P. O. E., will join with other lodges of the order and community organizations in the observance of Americanism Week, beginning tomorrow and continuing until March 8.

Patriotic exercises and programs will be presented in schools of the city, by church, business and professional groups and the local lodge of Elks will co-operate by helping in the presentation of these programs.

American Legion posts of Atlanta will sponsor essay contests in several schools of the community.

B'NAI B'RITH TO HEAR RABBI ZEIGER TALK

Noted Educator To Discuss 'Jewish Youth on the American Campus.'

Rabbi Bernard Zeiger, director of B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations for Jewish Students at the University of North Carolina and Duke University, will address Gate City Lodge No. 144 B'nai B'rith tonight at the regular monthly meeting at the Standard Club on Ponce de Leon avenue.

Rabbi Zeiger's subject will be: "Problems of Jewish Youth on the American Campus."

The meeting, designated as "Member-Bring-a-Member" meeting, will be preceded by a dinner at which all B'nai B'riths who bring new members will be guests of the lodge, together with their guests, at the dinner.

A goal of 1,000 new members has been set for the campaign now getting under way. "Every B'nai B'rith a loyal Jew—every loyal Jew a B'nai B'rith," has been adopted as the slogan for the membership drive.

Rabbi Harry H. Epstein is president of Gate City lodge. Hyman S. Jacobs, who is a past president of the B'nai B'rith fifth district, is chairman of the membership campaign. Julian Boehm, first vice president of the lodge, is associate chairman for the campaign along with Dr. Irving H. Goldstein, Berry Rittenbaum is secretary.

Rabbi Zeiger has held his present position at North Carolina for three years. He received his rabbinical degree from the Hebrew Union College at Cincinnati after doing undergraduate work at Michigan, and graduate work both at Columbia and New York School of Social Work. While serving as rabbi of Temple Beth-El in Flint, Mich., he was instructor of Ancient Civilizations at the Flint Junior College, and as special lecturer of comparative religions at Beth-El College in Detroit, Mich.

GROUP TO DISCUSS SANITATION WORK

Civic Body Will Hear H. J. Cates Lecture.

Community sanitation will be considered by the Home Park-Peters Park Civic League at its monthly meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Home Park school auditorium. H. J. Cates, head of the city sanitary department, will discuss the subject with league members.

Besides the address on sanitation a general discussion of civic affairs will take place led by Councilman John A. White.

$200,000 DAMAGE RESULTS AS HAIL HITS NEW ORLEANS

Three Persons Injured in Violent Storm, During Which Wind Touched 40 Miles; Crops Ruined.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—(P)—Three persons were injured in a violent hail and windstorm which caused an estimated $200,000 damage to property and crops as it swept over this city and three neighboring parishes late last night.

In New Orleans, Mrs. Ervin Pitre, 31, and her daughter, Lottie Pitre, 3, had to be hospitalized with severe head lacerations suffered when the roof of their home caved in.

Jean Marie Milleville, 76-year-old farmer, of Chalmette, in St. Bernard parish, suffered possible fractures of spine and ankle when his house, carried 30 feet by the wind, collapsed on him.

Crops Destroyed. Jefferson parish authorities said almost the entire truck crop between the southern point of the parish and Kenner was destroyed. Most of the cabbage crop in the Chalmette area was destroyed.

Harm to other crops in St. Bernard and Plaquemines parish diminished as the intensity of the storm was lost in moving south.

The most seriously damaged building in this city was that of the Magnin Industrial Terminal where the wind lifted part of the block-square structure's roof and allowed rain and hail to pour in. Damage there was estimated at $43,000.

The storm, lasting no more than 12 minutes, struck at 11:45 o'clock. Weather Bureau Chief W. F. McDonald said the hail was the worst to hit this city since 1924.

Blanket of White.

The stones, measuring between one-quarter and one-half inch in thickness, roused many residents from sleep by their rattling on roofs and windows. They piled against doorways, covered the streets with a blanket white as snow, drilled holes in automobile tops, and melted only after the warm sun struck them hours later.

Three ships in the harbor were torn loose from their wharf moorings although quick work by tugs got them back to the docks. In the business section dozens of plate glass windows were smashed.

A gambling house in St. Bernard parish suffered an estimated $3,000 damage when the wind tore off part of the wall and roof, sending the patrons into such a panic that the games had to be stopped for the night.

Sheds and equipment were damaged along the waterfront, trees were felled in the four parishes and thousands of birds were reported killed by the thumping hailstones.

McDonald said the weather bureau's gauge recorded winds of 40 miles an hour.

POLICE SCHOOL SESSION OPENS

Five-Week Meeting Will Be Conducted.

With 35 patrolmen enrolled, the annual police training school opened at 7:30 o'clock last night at headquarters. Sessions will continue for five weeks, during which the officers will be given instruction in traffic control, first aid, use of firearms and general police work.

Serving as instructors will be Lieutenant C. D. Hardeman, secretary to Chief Hornsby and a graduate of the FBI police school at Washington, and Patrolman Emmett Elliott, graduate of the traffic school at Northwestern University.

NEW CHURCH BUILDING. AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 27.—At the cost of approximately $70,000 the First Baptist church will erect an educational building next door to its historic church erected in 1917, and in which the Georgia Baptist Association was formed in 1821, and the Southern Baptist convention in 1840.

U. S. With Chip on Shoulder Inviting Trouble, Senate Told

Vandenberg Charges Public Kept in Ignorance of Foreign Policy as Debate Opens on Military Bill; Super German Bomb Investigated.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(UP)—The senate opened debate on President Roosevelt's military expansion bill today with a charge by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, that the administration is borrowing international trouble by carrying a chip on its shoulder and keeping the public in ignorance of foreign policy moves.

Vandenberg, prominently mentioned as a possible Republican presidential candidate in 1940, got in the first blow on foreign policy shortly after Chairman Morris Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, of the senate military affairs committee, pleaded for enactment of the $358,000,000 bill, which authorizes an increase in army air corps strength to 6,000 planes.

Declaring that there is no safety zone "where a truculent Uncle Sam can stand with a chip on his shoulder and be sure that no one can knock it off," Vandenberg bitterly criticized the policy of adopting methods "short of war" to aid other democratic nations.

No Middle Course. Such a policy, he charged, leads the public to believe that "we can be half in and half out" of any conflict, whereas actually there is no middle course. Because of the importance of foreign policy and its relationship to defense, he said, there should be "no restraint" in openly discussing both.

Opening of the debate coincided with the following foreign policy and defense developments:

1. Disclosure by Sheppard's committee that Major General Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, secretly testified that the War Department is seeking to determine the truth and possibilities of a report that Germany has developed an aerial bomb so powerful that it can kill "every human being within the range of a quarter of a mile."

2. An announcement by Chairman J. Buell Snyder, Democrat, Pennsylvania, of the house military appropriations subcommittee, that the regular War Department appropriations bill, totaling about $500,000,000, will be reported Thursday with provisions for the immediate building of 700 new army planes and strengthening of seacoast and anti-aircraft defenses.

"Sinister Secrecy." Vandenberg, who has remained silent throughout most of the recent controversy over Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy and the administration-sanctioned sale of American war planes to France, censured Sheppard's committee for shrouding its debate on the defense bill in the "sinister darkness of secrecy."

"I would resist fascism and communism to the last breath of my life, but I would not compromise my democracy in any measures 'short of war,' he shouted. "If we are prepared to take the first step, we should be prepared to take the final step if it becomes necessary."

In his opinion, he continued, he doubts that 10 per cent of the population would be willing to bear arms to assist Great Britain and France despite popular national support of the European democracies. America must think first of her own problems and "promote our own safety and our own peace," he declared.

Sheppard stressed that the one foreign policy to which the American people subscribe is that embodied in the principles of the Monroe Doctrine—"the western world belongs to the western nations and freedom and democracy must be preserved on this hemisphere."

He warned that totalitarian penetration of Latin America might be accomplished without resort to arms, chiefly through economic and cultural means, and that ultimately the Panama Canal would be threatened, thus menacing the entire peace and safety of the United States.

Connally to Defense. At conclusion of Vandenberg's speech, Senator Tom Connally, Democrat, Texas, answered him, saying that the Michigan senator had spoken only in broad general terms and platitudes with which no one could disagree. "Only Congress can declare war," he said. "I cannot conceive of any man who would be so far a traitor

Barcelona, came when Sheppard's committee made secret testimony before the group public in line with its previously stated policy.

Major General Arnold was shown by the record to have stressed that many reports of such developments reach the United States from abroad and that in most cases they are disproven or displayed as tremendously exaggerated statements of the true facts.

The investigation did show, however, that the Nazis "did have some kind of a bomb loaded with compressed air, carbon and some form of oil which combination was supposed to have provided a terrific detonating effect when the bomb hits the ground," he said.

VINSON COMMITTEE ARRIVES AT MIAMI. MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27.—(P)—Fifteen members of the house naval affairs committee, headed by Chairman Carl Vinson, of Georgia, arrived today to study Miami's claims as the site for a large naval air base.

Several members of the navy's Hepburn board accompanied them. They will inspect proposed island sites in Biscayne bay tomorrow.

WIDOW OF LENIN DEAD IN MOSCOW

'Grand Old Woman of the Soviets' Succumbs to Long Illness at 70.

MOSCOW, Feb. 27.—(UP)—"The Grand Old Woman of the Soviet Union," Adezhda Konstantinovna Krupskaya, widow of Nikolai Lenin, died today at the Kremlin hospital after a long illness.

Only yesterday she had observed her seventieth birthday anniversary. It was the occasion for a message to her which said in part:

"The central committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union and the Council of People's Commissars of the U. S. S. R. wish you good health and many more years of fruitful work for the great cause of Communism, for the benefit of our party and the working people of the Soviet Union."

2 DEATHS RECORDED IN WAKE OF STORMS

Man Electrocuted While Trying To Move Fallen Pole From Road.

A tornado that tore through a small farming community near Moniac, Ga., on the Florida fringe of the Okefenokee swamp, and high winds in other sections of south Georgia left in their wake today a toll of two dead, 22 injured and extensive property damage. Rain fell generally over the area last night.

The tornado near Moniac demolished five houses and injured 17 persons.

Wind at Bluffton Saturday night blew down several houses, killed a negro minister and injured four other negroes. Six white persons and a negro were reported injured near Blakely, and some damage was reported at Edison.

Lester Mander, a 23-year-old carpenter, of near Cordale, was accidentally electrocuted when he attempted to move a blown-down power pole from the highway. His bride of three months saw the tragedy.

At Albany, rainfall of 5.53 inches over the week end had been recorded by 7 o'clock yesterday morning, and the downpour had not ended.

Moultrie reported rain of 2.29 inches in the 24-hour period ending at 6 o'clock Sunday night.

Valdosta weather observers said a torrential downpour Sunday morning struck the gauge at 3.50 inches.

Farther north, Macon had a rainfall of about three inches since Saturday, with reports to the weather office there indicating the heaviest rain in the counties to the south and west.

Savannah reported 1.19 inches of rain for the 24 hours ending at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. High winds Sunday morning damaged trees in outlying sections. Columbus reported .91 inch of rain.

Americus reported week-end rainfall totaling 3.05 inches. A barn was blown down near Neyami Saturday night. H. O. Jones, owner of a large pear orchard, said freezing temperatures preceded

$50,774 Is Paid Jobless in Week

Unemployed Georgia workers received $50,774.94 in benefit payments last week from the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation of the State Labor Department.

Payments amounted to $5,159.45 more than during the preceding week and brought total payments to $169,864.32. Funds were distributed to 9,007 persons, officials said.

ing the rain had ruined the Sumter county pear crop. He said his orchard would make about 500 bushels instead of the 4,000 bushels anticipated.

ATLANTA, GA., FEBRUARY 26, 1939.

SOUTHEASTERN SURGICAL CONGRESS

The science of surgery has progressed little by little, step by step, as skilled hands and keen minds have succeeded in converting theory into practice. It has dealt with the prolongation of human life—usually after all other means have failed—a thing not to be trifled with by the too hasty adaptation of every unproven theory promising a short cut to a sure cure.

Thus, progress in this branch of medicine necessarily has seemed slow—when measured in the modern sense of doing things overnight. But it has been sure and safe and, in reality, rapid during the last two decades.

As in the case of all real scientists, surgeons realize—better, even, than their patients—there is still, and always will be, a vast amount of knowledge to be acquired. This is a trait peculiar to the scientist. He has been misled too many times. He has been too often abruptly halted by some dead end and forced to track his way back for a fresh start. No man knows better than he that the more one learns the more there seems yet to be learned.

With this thought uppermost in their minds some 1,000 doctors from 10 southeastern states will meet in Atlanta on March 6-8. Many of the country's outstanding teachers will be present to participate. The program will feature clinicians as they are seen and heard in their professional activities. There will be demonstrations, round-table discussions, commercial and scientific exhibits.

This convention of the Southeastern Surgical Congress, however, has an even deeper significance to Atlanta. It was here, 10 years ago, that a group of doctors dedicated themselves to the task of furthering surgical education. It was realized that doctors in the outlying communities were denied the advantages of frequent contact with clinical activities in the larger centers. So competent surgeons, of unquestioned integrity, were given the opportunity of teaching and elevating the standards of practice in these communities.

Many enthusiastic sectional meetings were held. Practical methods were brought to the general practitioner who otherwise would have been denied the benefits of post-graduate teaching. From this modest beginning grew the present magnificent organization. Year by year its benefits have become more and more manifest to the doctors as well as to the people.

ESSENTIAL RAW MATERIALS

On a number of occasions it has been pointed out that it would be advisable to store up a reserve supply of such essential raw materials as are not produced, or are produced in insufficient quantities, in the United States. Rubber, nickel, tin and silk have to be brought almost exclusively from abroad. There are many other materials which are produced in quantities insufficient to meet the normal demands of the people.

Under certain circumstances, such as a world war, it would prove exceedingly difficult even at tremendous expense, if not impossible, to acquire the needed supply of these essentials.

It is gratifying, therefore, that the senate committee on military affairs has unanimously approved a bill, sponsored by Democratic Senator Thomas, of Utah, calling for storing some $100,000,000 worth of essential raw commodities. Although the proposed legislation is not a part of the administration defense program, it is equally as important as building planes, warships and other implements of defense. Most of these essential materials would be necessary in the operation of the country's defensive arms.

The United States cannot afford to run the risk of being unprepared in the event of an emergency over which it has no control. A sudden plunging of the world into war would immediately cut off the supply of many needed things, except at great risk and expense. The last world war was proof enough that ample supplies of essential raw materials are as important as the reserve corps in the fighting forces.

A palace coup at Lima was put down with a few sharp commands from a vigilant officer of the guard. Great stuff—that Peruvian bark.

The rumor is afloat that this isn't the real Hitler but four other fellows. Hence an occasional word in dispatches that the Fuehrer was beside himself.

New York's cordial comments on the San Francisco fair have the elusive something found in a reference by one of the fair sex to another as a "sweet little woman."

A Chicago thief makes off with $50,000 worth of phonograph needles, each of which may be played 2,000 times—a record of some sort, we should think.

'SIT-DOWNS' OUTLAWED

The decision of the United States supreme court that employees who seized their employers' plants in a "sit-down" strike had no "shadow of legal right" to such action will come as no surprise to a majority of the people of America.

Few actions by any group or groups in recent years have been so repugnant to the American sense of justice and fair play as the sit-down strike. It is popularly regarded, rightfully, as a reckless resort to force in a situation which calls, emphatically, for arbitration and conciliation around the conference table.

Not even at the time when the sit-down strike was resorted to most freely was the great majority of organized labor in this country in full sympathy with the strategy. Today that disapproval has grown and it is doubtful if more than a comparative handful of organized workers would again attempt to resort to the practice.

However, regardless of the spread of popular disfavor regarding sit-down strikes, it is gratifying to the basic principles of American regard for law and order to read the supreme court decision on the matter.

Three decisions by the court, handed down Monday, reversed findings of the National Labor Relations Board, while the board was partially upheld in some minor details of the cases involved. The court decisions undoubtedly will add strength to the demand, increasing in insistency, for such amendments to the Wagner labor relations act as will make it more in accord with equality of justice for both sides in any dispute. That congress will amend the act, in some degree, at this session, is to be expected.

The act, in its purpose, is good. It was intended to assure fair play in the settlement of disputes between organized labor and management. That it swung too far in one direction may be properly attributed to a reverse swing which had existed before the act was written. To rectify that swing and to bring the scales of justice to a more even balance is the objective of the amendments now proposed. The supreme court decisions will aid in bringing this about.

LABOR'S NEW PRESIDENT

For the third successive term, Dewey Johnson, Atlanta's able city electrician, has been elected to the presidency of the Atlanta Federation of Trades. No action on the part of organized labor better could express confidence in his leadership than this retaining him in such an important office.

Dewey Johnson is a young, aggressive leader. He is deeply sincere in his belief in the cause of unionism. He regards the presidency of the Atlanta Federation of Trades as a trust, as well as an opportunity to serve, unselfishly, the better interests of the entire community.

The thrice-elected president is one of those rare individuals who leads without creating the impression he is pushing himself to the front or relegating others to the background. This is one of the most desirable attributes to successful leadership because it creates and encourages confidence—a necessary requisite in any office, but particularly so in one as important to organized labor as the presidency of the Atlanta Federation of Trades.

Labor made a wise decision when it decided to utilize the abilities of Dewey Johnson for another year as president.

"THE BUILDING OF BOYS"

Seventy-five years ago, in the mill cities of New England, the first Boys' Clubs were founded. They were the only haven for poor boys in the crowded mill workers' districts. They were designed to care for the underprivileged youngsters, who, for the want of a better place to go, became street wanderers. From this modest beginning 326 clubs are now operating in the United States and 21 in Canada.

The Boys' Club is unique in that it is a place, not merely an idea. It appeals primarily to the underprivileged, although many others have found it interesting. The impoverished urchin feels an equal sense of participating in the better things of life—when he actually participates. The club is becoming more and more a substitute for the old "gang" idea among boys. Naturally, it is strictly nonsectarian.

Boys' Clubs provide reading rooms, schooling, games, athletic fields, gymnasiums, swimming pools, camps, medical and dental service, vocational training of almost every kind, as well as music and dramatics and other arts for those having the inclination. As of January 1, 1939, 284,216 boys were enrolled. Over 63,000 of these were participating in vocational classes.

Although it would be unfair to label this work with underprivileged youth as crime prevention work, it cannot be denied that delinquency is most prevalent in the more or less slum areas where Boys' Clubs operate. For this reason—if for none other—those responsible for the continued operation of the clubs are entitled to all the support that can possibly be given them. The "building of boys"—particularly those who could so easily get started in the wrong direction—is an important function.

A movement to revive old-time vaudeville in New York is stopped in its tracks, as a society to combat the mother-in-law joke is organized in the same week.

SOMETIMES RECOILS

(From the Charleston News and Courier.)

A member of the general assembly can be elected a trustee or even a judge, but that membership does not help one to be elected governor or United States senator. The voters, the mere voters back home, are more and more aware by year thinking of the habit of the members of the general assembly to choose one of themselves when a vacancy in which they elect occurs through an outside candidate be of greater prominence and reputation. This habit of general assemblies is not new; they have been addicted to it 30 or 40 years. But the people back home are learning, they are "studying records," they are, perhaps unconsciously, absorbing a prejudice, not always just, against persons who have served in the general assembly, and watching for a chance to get even with them when they offer for offices in state primaries.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.

Mrs. Roosevelt's statement on Tuesday night that the National Youth Administration, the WPA and other relief agencies are merely temporary stop-gaps by which the American people "bought time to think" was both refreshingly candid and somewhat perturbing.

The acknowledgment that relief measures have failed to offer any "real solution of the problem of unemployment" is a recognition of truth. But that we have spent billions of dollars to buy off discontent means that we have created a stop-gap that is making it extremely difficult to do any thinking or to take any measures which would change the stop-gap into something really constructive.

For while the Administration has been buying time to think, it has also been defending its own stop-gap measures with every instrument of argument and propaganda, and by these measures it has created an enormous vested interest that is pitted against any fundamental reforms.

It has advanced and publicized economic and social theories which now are accepted by a considerable section of the population.

We have bought time to think for the last six years, and the sum of our thinking has been got to undo the actions that have been taken in the absence of thought.

ADVISED TO THINK BEFORE WPA SET-UP

There were many in this country who advised that we think before we set up the WPA. There were many who, though they believed in public works for the unemployed, predicted that if the government took upon itself the duty and task of creating work, for no economic purpose, but merely as a "buying time," it would make itself an object of blackmail, create a politically self-perpetuating body of wards of the state, discourage and dislocate the economic system, break down work standards, and instead of solving unemployment, establish it as an accepted way of life.

There are few people who could deny today that most of these prophecies have come true. Meanwhile the very status of the WPA as a part of the total economy remains undefined.

It is for instance, generally accepted that the WPA is a form of work relief and it has repeatedly been stated that the WPA is always anxious to move its workers into private industry, if the opportunity arises. It has also been a theory that the WPA should pay wages certainly not above the level set by trade unions.

But I have before me a clipping from a Chicago paper that the Federal Theater Project, "The Mikado" is closing down in that city, in the midst of capacity business in order to move into New York as a touring company, where it will compete with a similar performance privately financed.

The WPA workers, being on tour, have to be paid expenses in addition to their WPA salaries, which will bring the average salary above the Equity rating in New York, where the actors of the other company live.

The producer of the New York "Mikado" performance offered to take over the entire cast, at Equity wages of course, and send it ter 33, dealing with a portion of his travels in Persia, is interesting.

"Lening wearily against the shady side of the gorge, a seemingly old man was crying 'Abi abi' (water) in a faint, gasping voice, as though his tongue had already swollen from thirst, and was suffering him by cutting off his windpipe. As I extended the flask of coveted fluid toward the crouching figure, he suddenly elevated himself to his full height, and grabbed my collar in the steel-like fingers of his left hand, and with his right hand drew a flashing knife from his waist belt. 'I had been in the Egyptian riots and been chased through Palestine by Arabs, but this was the first time that one actually was suffocating on the spot. This bearded giant could and would have killed me instantly, but for an even more instantaneous and mechanical movement of my own free right hand, which connected with his chin and casted him no shrill, but a sharp, and his nose rested somewhat uncomfortably on the ground.

"As I beat a hasty yet respectable retreat on my bicycle, I looked back to find the would-be thief and murderer sitting in a stupor where he had fallen on the ground. He was rubbing his jaw and appeared to be surprised and awed at the unexpected result of our encounter as I.

"In 40,000 miles of solo rambling through the wildest regions around the world, this was destined to be the only hand-to-hand encounter wherein my eight years of boxing experience would be put to the test."

Another To Admire.

Which seems to indicate that Georgia has added one more to its list of marvels—the fist of Mr. Birchmore which so effectively did its duty against the jaw of a murderous Persian bandit.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—"It is all too frequently held that there is no difference between Communism and Fascism," writes Harry Elmer Barnes, who could be thinking of these dispatches which have said as much a time or two to the picturesque wrath of both sides.

"They may be equally un-American," says he, "and equally to be resisted, but certainly there is a difference. In the Soviet Union the benefits of dictatorial rule are conferred primarily on the masses. Stalin indulges in no such lavish extravagance and Roman holidays as do the Nazi hierarchy in Germany."

"Further, they differ in their attitude toward liberty. The Fascists regard liberty as a permanent nuisance, never to be tolerated. The Communists at least pretend to regard liberty as an important human value which has to be temporarily put into cold storage during the struggle to stabilize the Soviet Union. Whether the Communists ever will render more than lip service to democracy and liberty remains to be seen, but the Fascists do not even give lip service."

But earlier in the same piece Mr. Barnes notes that the Trotsky Communists and other schismatics, all claiming to be true Marxian followers, are contemptuously refer to the governing party in Russia and its accredited American branch as Stalin Fascists, and he could have quoted from their arguments to the distress of his own contentment. For the Trotsky Communists, though they may be read out of the party or shot for dissenting, make out a strong case of similarity between the nationalized or local Communism of the Soviet Union and the Fascist Nazism of Adolf Hitler. It may be that neither is the true Communism, but that would be immaterial in a discussion of their mutual likeness.

Concedes Both He concedes that they are both dictatorial, and I think the matter of Hitler's extravagance in burning, courts of honor and all such circus work may be reduced to a petty difference hardly worth the mention by a Ph. D. There was a time when the Russians also rolled out a red carpet, beat the drums and blew the trumpets to hop up the spirit and imagination of the clouds. Moreover, if a man is dictator he claims to know best, and if Stalin thought it wise to do so he could hold big parades and Roman holidays in Moscow without embarrassment to his Communism. Anyway, any time Hitler honors himself with a great demonstration of popular affection in a setting that costs several million marks, that extravagance speeds the day when private ownership and capital will vanish utterly.

Mr. Barnes suggests a belief that in Germany the benefits of the dictatorial rule are conferred not on the masses, as in Russia, but on the rich and middle class. There is a trap in that. You are asked to concede that the masses do receive the benefits of the dictatorial rule in Russia before proceeding to inquire who receives them in Germany. But the testimony does not agree that the faceless people primarily receive the material benefits of the Russian system. Much of it holds, on the contrary, that they went through years of sacrifice and woe and that now, when there are a few spare shoes, there are also classes in Russia. It may hurt to admit it, but the German masses have profited as much or more in material things.

Wishful Distinction.

But the kernel of the distinction between the Fascist repudiation of liberty and the pretense of the Russian dictatorship that liberty has been suspended only temporarily. For the time being, then, liberty, there is nothing to choose between Communism and Hitler's Bolshevism and Dr. Barnes places greater store by lip service to liberty than one would expect of a man so highly learned. Experience has it that people get liberty only by killing those who deprive them of it. He doesn't know, for he says it remains to be seen, whether Communists will ever render more than lip service to liberty, and the phase of his essay recalls with mocking irony the old song of the Communists, "You'll have pie in the sky when you die."

London's famous police headquarters, Scotland Yard, is not a yard at all. It took its name from a short street in the metropolis where Scottish Kings used to have their London residence, and where headquarters were established later for the "Bobbies."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

THE BERRY SCHOOL

In one of Don Byrne's greatest stories, "Messer Marco Polo," old Malachi, who is telling the story, has the great Pope say to young Marco:

"Never let your dream be taken from you."

Yesterday I talked at Rome and the Berry Schools with that most remarkable person, Miss Martha Berry. She talked briefly of the days when she had one small log building and some old cats and not much more. Except, of course, her dream.

Today the school needs much but there are many magnificent buildings and much beauty. There are rolling meadows. There are great fine barns with blooded livestock in them. There are shops and schoolrooms. And there are more than a thousand young boys and girls from Georgia, most of them from the mountains, attending the school.

"Miss Martha," someone asked, "now that all this has come, isn't it even more beautiful than your dream all had when you gave your property and your one log building to the girls and boys of the mountains?"

"No," said the grand person at the head of the luncheon table, "it is not yet half as fine as my dream."

So, she will have her dream and the Berry Schools will become greater and finer than ever. And from them will come boys and girls to join the others from vocational schools who know how to do things. They will restore the state. They will do it because they know how. Their hands and their brains are trained. They have learned by doing.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

Miss Martha Berry had the dream before the present workers in vocational education in Georgia could begin work on their own. She and they will supply the sinews which will bring back order to the small communities and to the farms.

It is not at all difficult to explain why the rural communities are being drained of all their best young people. It matters not at all that the cities are crowded and that five hungry boys and girls wait to take any vacant job. They, too, have their dreams. There seems no opportunity for them in their own towns and communities.

Not many days ago I visited a school in a rural community. It was far off the main road. It was entirely a farming community. Of the 60 families represented in the school 96 per cent were from farms. The others had been on farms and were now on WPA.

The teachers, following the dictates of the board, faithfully were preparing those students for a college they would never enter. They were getting some Latin and all the other subjects, taught in a manner all but impossible of practical application but suited only for college preparation. There was no training to go back to the farms and work there. There was no incentive.

When they were done with the school they would have a semi-classical training to enter a college they would never enter. Their community was entirely a farming community. Yet not one thing in their training or preparation had tended to create an interest in a rural economy or trained them to take their place in it.

School leavers everywhere today are wondering if they will not have to change some methods—retaining the college preparation, of course, but giving to the great majority which will never go to college some suitable training to fit them for their own communities.

MORE THRILLING THAN BANDS

To see the thousand boys and girls of Berry Schools march into their chapel—perhaps the finest lot of Anglo-Saxon stock in this country today—is to see something more thrilling than a parade with banners and bands.

Two lines come swinging up the walks and, at the entrance, the two lines meet and a boy and girl walk in together. The boys wear their work clothes and the girls their plain but attractive dresses and sweaters. Each class of girls has a different color dress so that, seen in the great hall, they made a most effective display of pretty colors.

Miss Berry always has held prayer in the morning and in the evening. And to see the thousand heads bend and to hear the solemn prayer go out over them, brings another emotion. You look at Miss Martha and think of all she has done and all the lives she has enriched because of her dream.

They work two days and go to school four, do the students at Berry. They learn how to make furniture, how to do shopwork, how to cook, how to make a home, how to care for a dairy, a farm and all the chores on it. They learn how to build buildings and equip them. They take, at the same time, a high school and, if they go on, a college degree. Yet they know how to do because they learned by doing. The theory is in their heads. Their hands have learned to put the theory into practice.

The result is that every graduate of the college has a job waiting. Usually there is more of a demand than there is a supply. There are not enough of them to teach and to serve in jobs.

The woman graduate who holds the best job of any girl to graduate from Berry was discovered plowing in a cotton field.

It is a part of the dream. Seeing them you know that vocational education is the real answer. Only 17 per cent of Georgia's high school graduates go to college. The remainder, with few exceptions, gets a little training for anything else but college.

A Fable About A Lion Whose

Soft Snap Was Spoiled By

A Fox

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Once upon a time there was a young lion who had failed and grown mangy in the jungle and then had been captured and sold to a carnival. The rough life of the carnival stunted him and made him a runt, but it gave him an idea, for he listened to the talk of men.

One day he escaped and returned to the jungle resolved to try his man-made idea on the animals.

"I have found a way to solve our problems," he said to them. Our life is too hard and we are denied our rights. Therefore we must organize a jungle state and make ourselves strong enough to demand justice."

This talk pleased the animals, for each thought his life unjustly hard, but they were suspicious.

"Who will boss?" they demanded.

"I'm afraid you don't understand," said the lion. "There will be no boss, but all will serve the state, which is above all and greater than all. I shall do all the hard work of getting things organized, and none of you will be asked to do any thinking."

Since the new state was something they couldn't see, like Santa Claus, the animals believed in it and cheerfully did as the lion directed.

The lion appointed a dozen snakes to slip through the grass and listen for criticism, and appointed a pack of wolves to liquidate those who objected to his system. The other animals hunted industriously for the glory of the state and brought their meat to the lion.

The lion got fat, even though he shared the meat with his wolves. The lion made a speech every week to keep the animals pepped up. "When you are hungry," he said, "remember you are sacrificing for the holy state. And if your relatives are liquidated, reflect that it is done to make the holy state safe."

After one of the lion's speeches, he demanded three cheers for the holy state, and all of the animals cheered except the fox.

"Your silence is treason," said a rabbit.

"Bolsony," said the fox. "My empty stomach is tired of being kidded. Where is this state the lion talks about? Have you seen it walking around? We hunt and sacrifice for the state, but I notice that the lion eats the meat. There isn't any state except him. He made up an imaginary something for us to serve because he knew we wouldn't be dumb enough to serve a runtly lion, but he gets all the benefit and glory while we get thin."

Then the animals' eyes were opened and they saw that the holy state was only a fat and runtly lion.

Moral: What the world needs is more foxes.

U. S. WAGE FIXING ORDER RESTRAINED PENDING HEARING

Independent Steel Companies Obtain Injunction Against Perkins, Charging Law Violation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(UP)—A temporary order restraining Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins until Monday from fixing minimum wages of 62 1-2 cents an hour for workers of three of seven independent steel concerns fighting the scale, was issued today by Federal District Judge Jennings Bailey.

The new scale was to have become effective Wednesday in plants that supply steel to the government. Power to fix these wages is given to Miss Perkins under the Walsh-Healey act.

Bids Submitted.

The steel independents contested the scale, protesting that they would be unable to compete under it for government contracts. Judge Bailey fixed Monday for argument, meantime restricting the effect of the restraining order to three firms which said they wished to bid on five federal steel contracts which will come up between now and Monday.

These firms are: Lukens Steel Company, of Coatsville, Pa.; Allen-Wood Steel Co., of Conshohocken, Pa., and Central Iron & Steel Company, Harrisburg, Pa. At the request of Lee Pressman, counsel for the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, which demanded the 62 1-2 cent scale, the companies were ordered to post $25,000 bond each. This is designed to cover the difference between wages now paid to their employees and what they would have to pay under the new scale.

"Language Disregarded."

Counsel for the seven companies contended that Secretary Perkins' three-man board which recommended the 62 1-2 cent wage "disregarded the fundamental language" of the Walsh-Healey act. They insisted that it was never the intention of congress that such authority over an industry be vested in a federal department.

Representative Francis E. Walters, Democrat, Pennsylvania, appearing as a friend of the companies, upheld this contention. He served on the labor sub-committee which reported the Walsh-Healey act and told the court that it did not wish to "give Miss Perkins the arbitrary power to fix wages."

"We are interested in seeing this act upheld," Walters said. "The only way to prevent its destruction is by the issuance of the restraining order."

Pressman argued that the order would be unfair to thousands of steel workers in plants not directly involved in the suit.

B. & O. OPERATING INCOME.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 27.—(P)—The Baltimore & Ohio railroad's net railway operating income for January, after taxes and charges, was reported today as $1,670,919, an increase of $1,374,018 over January, 1938. Operating revenues for the month totaled $11,953,480, an increase of $1,061,258 over the same period last year.

Milledgeville College A Cappella Choir Entertains Members of Georgia Legislature

Fresh young voices were lifted in serious song yesterday in the house of representatives as the house and senate held a brief joint session to enjoy the singing of the Milledgeville College A Cappella choir. Here are the 60 students from the Georgia State College for Women and the Georgia Military College as they appeared rendering music without instruments for the pleasure of the lawmakers. They were trained by Max Noah. Senators and representatives applauded the vocal efforts of the white-gowned students. The choir sang before the assemblymen in 1937 and made a great hit, receiving an urgent invitation to "come back." They did yesterday and now have another invitation to return at a future date for another legislative appearance. Speaker Roy V. Harris and Senate President John Spivey issued the invitation.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Tramp, tramp, tramp, The boys are marching..."

The German-American Bund (Nazis) has 60 posts in the United States, most of them in large cities. With a further, a swastika emblem, and the Nazi salute, the American Hitlerites have at least 25,000 participants in their meetings and more than 500,000 active sympathizers, according to the Dies committee. Fascists have some 200 organizations in America with at least 250,000 active sympathizers and a corps of 10,000 uniformed "Black Shirts." Both Nazis and Fascists specialize in "youth movements" identical with those in Europe. "Many American children," reports well-informed Dixie Miller in the Texas Weekly, "some of them hardly out of their rompers, march smartly uniformed beside their elders. They are taught not to associate with other American children lest they be contaminated. American histories are being rewritten to conform to the 'patriotic' philosophies which these children, American born, are being taught."

Dr. Miller reports that the Bund has attempted to establish posts in Dallas, Houston, San Antonio and Galveston, but that all have failed. "The reason for the resistance of the south and west to the penetration of extraneous political doctrines," he thinks, "lies doubtless in the extremely high percentage of its native-born population."

Possession of a high percentage of native-born may make the south and west immune to Communism but not to Fascism. Fascist and Nazi appeal is to pride of race and nativity, and the south has more than its share of such pride. There is, also, to something else for which the south has a weakness—the love of regalia, marching feet, sounding brass, fraternal ritual, uniforms, martial airs, strong arms, and the giving and taking of orders. Just why the Texas cities refused the Nazis, we don't know. We hope it was because they had a proper sense of their country and its institutions. But we can't accept Mr. Miller's theory that it was because so many southerners are native-born. And we can't feel any great confidence that the refusal was final, either. Fascism has a special allure for southerners, we fear, and it is going to take some pretty eternal vigilance on their part to keep themselves free.

Thanks to us newspaper people and our photographers, the Nazi mass meeting in Madison Square Garden last week has probably done the cause a great deal more

EASTERN TIME BILL WINS IN COMMITTEE

Senator Durden's Group Recommends Passage in Upper House.

The Georgia uniformed time bill was recommended favorably yesterday by the senate state of the republic committee, of which Senator Durden, of Albany, is the chairman.

The bill seeks to establish uniform eastern standard time for the entire state—to eliminate the confusion now caused by the dividing line placing approximately one-third of the state under central time.

Only Senator Dixon Smith, of Columbus, voted "no" on Senator Wallace Harrell's motion to report the bill out of committee with the recommendation that it "do pass."

Senator Roy McGinty, of Calhoun, said he favored getting the bill on the floor of the senate but that he was opposed to any change.

Senator Durden, who called the committee meeting during the morning session of the senate, asserted that no one requested a public hearing on the bill which was introduced in the house by Representative David S. Atkinson, of Savannah.

CHEVROLET PLANT DAMAGED BY FIRE

Blaze Originated in Paint Shop Division.

Fire, believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion, did considerable damage to contents of the paint shop of the Chevrolet Motor Company, on McDonough boulevard, yesterday morning before it was brought under control.

The blaze originated in a heating unit in the paint storage department, which is virtually fireproof. Workmen at the plant continued operations while firemen were extinguishing the fire.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

THE HIGHEST PATRIOTISM.

Dr. J. B. Lawrence, executive secretary of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board, with headquarters in Atlanta, has said a fine thing in a published article in connection with the annual March Week of Prayer for Home Missions in the following paragraph:

"The winning of one's country to Christ is the highest patriotism. We must win our land to Christ to make it safe for rising generations. The forces of evil are battling against the principles of righteousness. We need the vigor and faith and service of all our forces to meet these nights of darkness. I appeal to you to put on the whole armor of God and, as knights of the cross, go forth to battle, through faith and consecrated living for Christ."

This week of study and prayer for home missions began last Sunday and will continue through Friday of this week in the 25,000 churches of the Southern Baptist Convention, led by the valiant forces of Woman's Missionary Union. The offering, known as the Annie W. Armstrong offering, will go to the support of the various departments of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board's activities—evangelism, work among the Indians, Negroes, Mexicans, Italians, Spanish, French, and other foreign-born groups, as well as work among the Jews, the work in Cuba, the Panama Zone, etc.

The territory of the convention stretches from Illinois and Maryland to the north to Key West and from the Atlantic seaboard to New Mexico and Arizona in the west. Upwards of 40,000,000 people live in this territory, including 11,000,000 Negroes, 100,000 Indians, 10,000 Chinese and Japanese, 2,000,000 in making, Mexicans, French and Spanish-speaking peoples.

Southern Baptists, white and black, compose some eight or nine millions of this total population. Our testimony, therefore, will go to the great southern portion of our nation. If our nation is to continue a land of the freedom and liberty, with a free church in a free state, with freedom of speech, freedom of press, freedom of worship, Baptists certainly must accept a very large responsibility. If we preserve the home as the citadel of civilization against the subtle schemes of an age of sweeping irreverence and immorality, if the Bible remains an open book, if the tides of materialism and paganism are turned back, then Southern Baptists, white and black, and all fellow Christian groups, must accept our common responsibility to lead Christ known as Saviour and Lord. This is the task of this week and every week—the greatest patriotism.

PRESS AD LEADERS TO CONVEY HERE

President Advocates Closer Co-operation.

Closer relationship between the small and large newspapers of Georgia and a higher standard of ethics in newspaper advertising were advocated here yesterday by Max Nussbaum, of the Moultrie Observer, and president of the Georgia Daily Newspaper Advertising Managers' Association, in preparing plans for the annual convention of that body.

The group will meet here April 10.

"The association seeks development of improved salesmanship among advertising men, a higher standard of ethics for the promotion of all newspaper advertising, particularly in highly competitive fields, and a better understanding of the relations between business and newspapers," he said.

In connection with the latter objective, Nussbaum said the organization has been enlisting speakers from businesses which depend to a large extent on newspaper advertising to move goods. The completed program for the annual meeting will be announced at a later date, he asserted.

C. E. ALLEN DIES; HEADED TOY FIRM

Resident of Decatur Will Be Buried There This Morning.

C. E. Allen, 59, well-known Atlanta businessman and long a leader in religious and fraternal affairs, died yesterday morning at his home, 521 Clairmont avenue, Decatur, after an illness of several months.

A native of Columbus, Ga., Mr. Allen had lived here for more than 50 years and at one time was president of the Atlanta Manufacturers' and Distributors' Association. He was president of the Georgia Fireworks Company and also of the C. E. Allen Company, wholesale distributor of toys and novelties.

He was for many years interested in work among boys and conducted Sunday school classes for them in several Atlanta churches. He also ran summer camps at Barber's Ridge, near Smyrna. He was a member of the Central Baptist church, the Elks and the Grant Park Lodge No. 604, F. & A. M.

Surviving are his wife; a son, William Ernest Allen; five daughters, Misses Marguerite, Miriam and Kitty Allen, Mrs. F. P. Cook and Mrs. A. R. Guest; a sister, Mrs. W. A. Sims, and five brothers, F. L. A. A., George W. C. G. and Roy Allen.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning at the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes. Burial will be in Decatur cemetery.

GROUP TO LEASE AIR RIGHTS URGED

Bill Would Name Commission for W. & A. Deals.

A proposal to create a commission of prominent Georgians to negotiate leases of air rights over the state-owned W. & A. railroad in the city was placed in the senate hopper yesterday by Senator G. Everett Millan, of Atlanta. Millan's bill names Chief Justice Charles Reid, of the supreme court; Cason Callaway, of LaGrange; Judge A. H. Freeman, of Newnan; Ryburn Clay, of Atlanta; Henry T. McIntosh, of Albany; Representative David S. Atkinson, of Savannah, and Judge S. Price Gilbert, of Sea Island and Atlanta, as a non-paid commission to handle the leases.

They would be empowered to lease air rights over the railroad to corporations or individuals for the construction of buildings or other projects, with the revenue accruing to the state.

One privately owned building already is being erected over the tracks at the Whitehall street viaduct.

The Pulse Of the People

RAIL MAIL LEADER DENIES FAVORITISM

Editor Constitution: First let me say that I was born in Georgia, at the town Mayfield; educated at Mercer University, and spent more than 20 years of my life there; on the farm, teaching school and came in the postal service at Atlanta. Your paper was always my favorite while there.

However, I am in receipt of a dozen copies of an editorial from your paper regarding favoritism of South Carolina appointment of substitutes over Georgia railway mail substitutes. In this there are many gross facts that were very much unwarranted, and will not parallel with the statements as shown by department figures. Someone has failed to state the true facts and have very liberally misinterpreted even an iota of fair play in encountering a proposition that originated, still exists and must live under its own colors.

I feel that you should for your own information ask or ascertain from the department the actual facts in this case and then reaffirm their truthfulness or repudiate them firmly.

President South Carolina Branch, Railway Mail Association, St. Stephen, S. C.

Authority Cited For Segregation In State Prisons

Authority to segregate youthful criminals from hardened offenders is vested by law in the board of penal administration, Chairman A. O. Blalock was informed yesterday by the State Law Department.

Penal system inmates between 16 and 21 years of age may be segregated by the board and camps provided for them, an opinion by Assistant Attorney General Duke Davis said in compliance with Blalock's request for a ruling. The opinion also cited code authority to place all criminals under 18 in the Georgia State Training school at Milledgeville.

Although authorized to separate youthful and confirmed criminals, the board must find a place to send numerous minors now in Tifton state prison. Other branches of the state penal system already are crowded.

Segregation of the youthful criminals is a major item in Governor Rivers' prison reform program set in motion by the 1937-38 special session of the general assembly.

The United States geological survey estimated recently that prairie dogs had caused damage of 35 cents an acre per year to 200,000 acres of land in western Oklahoma.

SEEK INDICTMENT IN OLD SLAYING

Convict Reported To Have Confessed in Holdup Death of Adcock.

A record of law enforcement vigilance and persistence will be written this morning when Fulton county grand jury considers charges against Jimmie Lee Gibbs, 19, negro convict, and three others in the slaying January 7, 1938, of T. W. Adcock, Almond Park grocer.

Attaches of Solicitor General John A. Boykin's office will ask an indictment as a result of a confession allegedly obtained from Gibbs by Detective Chief J. A. McKibben, Calvin Cole, special investigator from Boykin's office, and Police Detectives M. V. Moss, L. T. Bullard and H. L. Sexton.

Adcock was shot to death with a shotgun when he tried to defend his place against a raid by a quartet of negroes who obtained $4.

Gibbs was arrested shortly after the incident, but was released because of lack of sufficient evidence to hold him. Since that time, he has had several brushes with the law, and during the week end, admitted to Cole he held the gun which was discharged accidentally. He later repeated his statement to McKibben, detectives reported.

He has been transferred from the convict camp to police headquarters. Cole said the confession implicates three other negroes, whose names were withheld pending their arrest.

Moss refused to consider closed the case on which he, Cole and the others have worked tirelessly. When confronted with the combined evidence in the hands of the officers, Gibbs yesterday was reported to have broken down and confessed.

32 Are Killed in Fresh Holy Land Strife

Bombs Planted in Vegetable Baskets Take Toll of 24 Arabs, 39 Wounded; Armed Cars Patrol.

JERUSALEM, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Armored cars equipped with machine guns patrolled turbulent centers of the Holy Land tonight following a week-end renewal of Arab-Jewish strife in which 32 persons were killed and 54 were wounded.

Military police enforced curfew at Haifa, scene of the heaviest bloodshed, which came in the reports that British proposed to make an independent state of Palestine.

Bombs planted in vegetable baskets at Haifa's Arab market killed 24 Arabs and wounded 39. The explosions were set off during the morning marketing hour.

Except for military patrols, the streets of Haifa were deserted tonight. From the Arab quarter came the wails of relatives over the mangled bodies of the bomb victims.

Land Mine Blasts. In Jerusalem's marketplace three Arabs were killed and six were wounded by exploding bombs and one Arab was shot to death. Snipers fired on Arab vehicles but failed to inflict casualties.

Three land mine explosions outside Jaffa killed one Arab and wounded four others, and in Jaffa proper two Jews were reported to have slain an Arab youth.

Two Arabs were found shot to death near the Jewish community of Tel Aviv.

Gloom filled Jewish settlements where it was feared the Palestine conferences in London might mean the end of their hopes for a national home in the Holy Land.

Jews upon hearing reports from London that they might be relegated to a permanent minority status held protest meetings throughout Palestine.

"Denial of Rights." The mayor of Tel Aviv telegraphed Prime Minister Chamberlain and Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald that he would "not accept a denial of our rights."

Arabs who paraded in Haifa before curfew cheered the German consul when he appeared on the balcony after receiving a delegation of 100 Arabs.

A consular official said the Arabs "merely informed the consul of the details of the outrages."

An estimated 3,000 persons have been killed in Palestine during the strife of the past two and one-half years between Jews and Arabs, both of whom consider the Holy Land their spiritual home.

G. A. AENCHBACHER RITES ARE TODAY

Burial Will Take Place in Oakland Cemetery.

Funeral services for G. A. Aenchbacher, 78, of 132 Warren street, S. E., lifelong resident of Atlanta and former city employee, who died Sunday at a private hospital, will be conducted at 11:30 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill.

Dr. Louis D. Newton will officiate. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery, under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

At one time Mr. Aenchbacher was connected with the Atlanta Street Railroad Company which built the first horse-car "run" here and was later employed in the city waterworks department.

Jews and Kennedy Hit Palestine Plan

Ambassador Tells Halifax That U. S. Opinion Opposes 'Arab State.'

LONDON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy told Foreign Minister Viscount Halifax today that United States public opinion opposed the relegation of Jews to a permanent minority status in a British-proposed plan for an "Arab state of Palestine."

Simultaneously, Jewish delegates to the London Holy Land peace conference placed a memorandum before Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald rejecting the new British Palestine plan as a basis for negotiation.

The Jews made their "observations" on the British suggestions for Palestine's future rule after a stormy discussion with British officials.

A Jewish agency spokesman said Dr. Chaim Weizman, president of the World Zionist organization and the Jewish Agency for Palestine, had told the British delegation Jews could not accept the British plan for these reasons:

1. "It ignores Jewish rights to a national home in Palestine."

2. "It gives Jews no safeguards concerning Jewish immigration to the Holy Land."

3. "It places Jews under permanent domination of Palestinian Arabs."

BERLIN SPEEDS EXODUS OF JEWS. BERLIN, Feb. 27.—(AP)—German began handing out "J" passports to Berlin Jews today as fast as formalities could be completed.

This reversed a previous policy which required that passports would be granted only to those likely to receive permission to enter foreign countries.

The reason for the change apparently was to provide Jews with passports as swiftly as possible and tell them to leave Germany soon under an order effective today that requires the emigration of 100 Berlin Jews daily.

A new wave of Jews descended on foreign consulates beseeching them to speed up promised visas or asking to be placed on waiting lists.

'Cousin Susie' Has 'Boys' to Dinner; Woman Senator Shows Farm Work

Fellow Solons Entertained and Told of Progress Being Made in Georgia Livestock and Agriculture—Especially at Coastal Plain Experiment Station at Tifton.

By YOLANDE GWIN. Rogers' of the senate, lent an attentive ear to the mule and peccan comment, because, he said, "I have a 42-mule farm and 300 acres of peccans!"

And he was so interested he did not notice that Addie Darden, of Albany, and Wallace Harrold, of Quitman, overturned a glass of water on the floor; nor that Senate President John Spivey left early to fill an 8:30 o'clock appointment.

But he did notice that Speaker Roy Harris, of the house, arrived with the main course, and that there were 26 of Cousin Susie's boys there and Mrs. Eva Mae Dowdy, of Tifton, and that Cousin Susie looked well in her orchid chiffon and gardenias.

Tifton Invitation. And the boys came, and Cousin Susie sat at the head of the table and passed around hot rolls and muffins, and between the fruit cocktail and the main course she read a telegram from the Rotary Club down in Tifton inviting the crowd down for dinner Friday night.

"We'll all go down in a bus," she said, "spend the night there after dinner, and the next morning come over to my house for breakfast. And it will be a good one, too!"

All over the table were scattered large photographs of crops and cattle at the Coastal Plain Experiment station at Tifton. And that's mostly what Dr. S. V. Sanford, of the University of Georgia, talked about when Cousin Susie announced, during the ice cream course, that "Dr. Sanford is going to talk to us, so everybody listen."

Georgia Possibilities. Dr. Sanford talked about Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and his visit here several years ago when he saw several crops and live stock situation. And later, when he gave the state mules and sheep. Then Dr. Sanford talked about work being done with Georgia peccans and exhibited a sample of peccan oil, and also a small china pitcher, demonstrating what can be done with clay from Wilkes county. And injecting an air of mystery into the story, he said, "And just think, if you can imagine what can be done with peccans!"

Senator J. E. Brooks, the "Will

posals, 84 to 43, but only after the Rome legislator had charged that $235,000 applications for old-age pensions never have been touched "either because these people can't vote, won't vote or vote the other way."

He said the state, if it carries out promises made by the Rivers' administration should be willing to appropriate sufficient money to pay all eligible pensioners $15 a month, which would be matched by federal funds to make a total of $30 monthly.

"Let's put on a 10 per cent sales tax," Rogers cried, "and go on and pay everyone. Let's just do it at once. Let those who can't pay it get out and those who can, come on and play ball."

Refuses to Reconsider. The house voted down, 76 to 62, a proposal by Representative A. W. Daughtry, of Wilkinson, to raise the figure to $5,000,000 and then supported its action by refusing, 73 to 68, to reconsider its action.

Representative Lanham, of Floyd, chairman of the house ways and means committee, urged adoption of the higher amendment because the pension program "is the very heart of our program."

"As for my part let's make the appropriation large enough to put on all the old people and dependent children and blind who are entitled to benefits or quere. Are we going to be men enough to face the facts as they are or are we going to straddle the fence?"

The name of former Governor Talmadge was drawn into the debate when Lanham charged that a lot of the house members were "running around here riding on economy hobby horses."

"Gene Talmadge is the original economy boy," shouted Lanham. "I don't know how many of these fellows here are going to run but I do know they can't run him off that platform."

Speaker Harris, urging a cut in High of $44,000,000. Proposed changes of the committee figure for social security ranged from the Harris' and Edwards' amendment to a high of $44,000,000 proposed by Representative Rogers, of Floyd county. The house defeated Rogers' proposed appropriation, told the house that "regardless of the dynamite, this is our responsibility. We ought to fix an amount we can pay and are willing to tax to pay it."

He drew attention that the state was now paying at a rate of $2,200,000 in social security benefits and asserted even with the cut he proposed there would be $448,000 more available in state funds than was now being spent. He said if this amount was matched with federal funds it would add almost $900,000 to the present figure and permit payment of pensions to 12,000 new applicants.

Administrative forces apparently had picked up strength in the house over the week end, beating off three separate attempts to trim the proposed appropriation for the board of penal administration.

The appropriations bill as placed before the house, sitting as a committee of the whole, called for $222,500. That figure was retained, despite moves to cut it to $200,000, $180,000 and $150,000.

As finally approved for later consideration, however, the figure was a reduction from the current appropriation of $267,000. An amendment would require use of $6,000 to erect a cold storage and meat curing plant at Tattall prison.

Cost of Transporting. Another amendment would require that the state pay the cost of transporting prisoners from the county of conviction to the prison.

BILLS WOULD END RIFT WITH FLORIDA

Substitute for $500 Tax on Out-of-State Fish Dealers Included.

Bills containing proposals to settle the prolonged dispute between Georgia and Florida over license fees levied on commercial fishermen and wholesale seafood dealers were introduced in the general assembly yesterday by Representative Frank McNall, of Chatham county.

One of the measures would substitute for the present $500 annual tax on out-of-state fish dealers a provision that sanitary standards for distribution and transportation of seafoods in Georgia shall be enforced by the commissioner of agriculture and that a flat levy of $50 shall be made on each place of business of seafood dealers.

The second of McNall's measures seeks to amend the tax on fishermen and fishing vessels to provide an annual levy of $5 on all boats over $10 on boats 16 feet or less in length, and $1.50 per foot on boats more than 16 feet long. In addition, a tax of $5 per man on the crew of each boat would be imposed.

A third bill would prohibit commercial fishing in any inland waters of Georgia except St. Andrews and St. Simons sounds.

KENNEDY OPPOSES HIGHWAY DIVERSION

$7,000,000 in Federal Allotments Declared Available for State.

Dr. R. J. Kennedy, president of the Citizens' Road League, declared yesterday in a statement opposing diversion of highway funds that about $7,000,000 in federal allotments was available for this state "if we had sufficient money to match them."

In the "present chaotic condition" of state finances, the statement said, it was important "to determine the rightful place of highway funds in Georgia's economy."

Kennedy, a Statesboro banker, said the state at present diverts some $3,500,000 in highway funds for other than road uses.

Chairman W. L. Miller of the state highway board, declined to comment specifically on Dr. Kennedy's statement.

Miller recalled that a resolution sponsored by the Citizens' Road League to create an advisory road council had been introduced in the current general assembly.

In another part of his statement, Dr. Kennedy urged that "we build safety into our highways. Until that is done, he said, 'we will never solve the accident problem.'"

When the legislature talks of further diversion of highway funds," he said, "let them look at the 1938 accident figures."

CLASH IN CONGRESS OVER FIRST LADY

Charges of Writing Clipper Insurance Denied.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A heated exchange developed in the house today when Representative Schaffer, Republican, Wisconsin, asserted that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had written insurance for a Pan-American Airways clipper.

Declaring Pan-American is going to get a subsidy for a trans-Atlantic air mail service, he called attention to a provision in the transportation office appropriation bill for $998,000 for the service.

Schaffer was accused by Representative Ford, Democrat, California, of making a "pure, demagogic statement."

"The first lady of the land did not write that insurance, and you know it," Ford roared.

The proposed appropriation, told the house that "regardless of the dynamite, this is our responsibility. We ought to fix an amount we can pay and are willing to tax to pay it."

He drew attention that the state was now paying at a rate of $2,200,000 in social security benefits and asserted even with the cut he proposed there would be $448,000 more available in state funds than was now being spent. He said if this amount was matched with federal funds it would add almost $900,000 to the present figure and permit payment of pensions to 12,000 new applicants.

Administrative forces apparently had picked up strength in the house over the week end, beating off three separate attempts to trim the proposed appropriation for the board of penal administration.

The appropriations bill as placed before the house, sitting as a committee of the whole, called for $222,500. That figure was retained, despite moves to cut it to $200,000, $180,000 and $150,000.

As finally approved for later consideration, however, the figure was a reduction from the current appropriation of $267,000. An amendment would require use of $6,000 to erect a cold storage and meat curing plant at Tattall prison.

Cost of Transporting. Another amendment would require that the state pay the cost of transporting prisoners from the county of conviction to the prison.

Two members of the house sought to force the house to enact an appropriation bill "within the available revenue of the state."

They explained it also would forestall any possibility of a veto of a new appropriations bill so that the 1937-39 money measure would continue in effect.

Representatives John Forrester of Crisp and W. H. Forrester of Lanier proposed that the 1937-39 appropriations act be amended to strike out a clause providing for continuance of the act until it is

CHICAGO TO VOTE ON MAYOR TODAY

Primaries Will Provide First 1939 Sampling of Two Parties' Strength.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The mayor's primary elections—providing a fresh test of the power of the Kelly-Nash Democratic organization and a new gauge of Republican strength—were expected to bring out more than 1,000,000 voters tomorrow.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly, seeking re-nomination on the Democratic side, was pitted against State Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, his uncompromising opponent in the party's factional feuds.

Dwight H. Green, who won wide notice as a "gang buster" while serving as United States district attorney, was opposed by former Mayor William Hale "Big Bill" Thompson in the contest for the Republican nomination.

1,200,000 Votes Seen. The board of election commissioners estimated 1,200,000 citizens would participate in the nation's first major 1939 sampling of popular political trends. This was based on a record registration of 1,827,362. But rain, forecast for the election hours, may curtail the turnout.

Predictions of victory came from all camps.

Both Courtney and Green urged the electorate to "smash the machine"—the Democratic city organization headed by Kelly and National Committeeman P. A. Nash. Courtney charged the gambling syndicate "could not operate without the O. K. of the mayor."

Green, whose prosecution led to the imprisonment of Al Capone and six of his henchmen, contended Kelly and Courtney were jointly responsible for "the revival" of the Capone gang.

Kelly Cites Record. Kelly, 62, and stalwart, ran on his six-year record. He ignored the thrust of his adversaries' charges and declared: "My administration has given more service at less cost than any other in the modern history of Chicago."

Thompson, 69 now, depended more on building an organization than on the free-style campaigning that led to his election to the mayor's office in 1915, 1919 and 1927. He claimed his nomination would prevent Republican County Chairman Edward F. Moore or the "LaSalle street bipartisan bosses from selling out the G. O. P. as they did in the 1935 mayoral election."

Green, 42 and making his first race, was drafted by the Republican organization. Republican leaders opined that the state's 29 electoral votes would be shifted to their party's presidential column in 1940 if the Kelly-Nash "machine" could be destroyed.

Forrester said he found sentiment in the house to be that there was danger Governor Rivers might allow appropriations bill now being prepared for 1939-41 because of drastic reductions, and thus permit the old act to remain in force.

Lovett said he contemplated a further move if this measure is not approved, to amend the old appropriations law to conform with reductions approved for the tentative 1939-41 appropriations. He said this would have the effect of putting into operation the economies contemplated by the legislators, regardless of administrative action.

Lobbying Protested. Lovett also took the floor to protest against asserted lobbying by members of state departments whose budgets are under consideration, to amend the old appropriations law to conform with reductions approved for the tentative 1939-41 appropriations. He said this would have the effect of putting into operation the economies contemplated by the legislators, regardless of administrative action.

The senate remained in session only briefly, acting for the most part on Fulton county bills, while the house plodded along with the appropriations measure. Members approved $40,000 for the State Prison and Parole Board, as compared with the $100,000 in the current measure.

New bills included one by Representative Rogers, of Floyd, aimed at speeding action by county and state welfare departments on old-age pension applications. It also would require pro rata distribution of available funds to all persons entitled to receive benefits.

The bill would require county welfare departments to pass upon all applications within 90 days, submit reports within 10 days thereafter to the state department, and require state approval or rejection within 30 days.

Constitution Clippings From Days Of Stage Coach Sought in Contest

Life in Georgia From Mail Coach to Air Mail Chronicled Over 70 Years by This Newspaper; Send in Your Clippings—They May Mean Prizes.

The United States mail stagecoach of the '70s delivered to one family their Atlanta Constitution while they were on vacation in Dahlonga. This past summer another generation of that same family, vacationing in Maine, received their Constitution by United States mail.

A lifetime has elapsed, and things have changed, but people of this section remain southerners, and still look to their Constitution for all the news, the way they want it.

Walter Wanger's epic, "Stagecoach," which opens at Loew's Grand Thursday night, illustrates the danger of those days when men took their lives in their hands in following that slogan "The mails must go through."

Air mail has great perils today, but human nature does not alter much. This morning's paper carries the same news about folks, wars, crimes, politics. Every story is of especial interest to someone today, as it was then. Someone's engagement is announced; someone dies; someone succeeds; someone fails. History is truly recorded in the pages of a newspaper. When that newspaper serves a people for 70 years as has The Constitution, the history of thousands of families is so chronicled.

Clippings from old copies of The Constitution illustrate this to the fullest extent. One reader of The Constitution today brought in a scrapbook in which were posted clippings from The Constitution during the very first year of its life, these clippings chronicling the engagement and later the wedding and still later the death of her great-grandparents. Ever since these long-ago days, this paper has recorded such happy, and sometimes sad, notes about her family, time and time again down to today.

Have you any clippings from The Constitution that you have treasured through the years? They don't have to be so very old to be valuable to you and interesting to The Constitution itself. One from a paper 25—or even 15 years ago—might prove to be one of the 71 oldest submitted. If so, you will be invited to a gathering of those whose families have been served longest by The Constitution, at a Constitution dinner Thursday evening. Following the dinner there will be a special Constitution preview of "Stagecoach" at Loew's Grand theater, for the party.

Be sure that your paper, page or clipping is in hands of the Stagecoach editor, Lillie May Robinson, on the fourth floor of The Constitution by 3 o'clock tomorrow—Wednesday—afternoon. And if you are one of those invited to the party, your name will be listed in The Constitution Thursday morning, which edition will give full details about the dinner and theater party.

All clippings and old papers will be cared for and returned to owners. So dig out your clippings and join The Constitution-Loew's Grand "Stagecoach" dinner and theater party.

The expenditures on public works to 35 per cent of revenue, exclusive of funds for schools.

Millikan also introduced a bill increasing city police pension maximums from $60 to $75 per month and setting up a sliding scale for retirements such as the city fire department has. He said policemen would contribute additional funds needed to pay the increase and that there would be no extra cost to the city.

Mrs. Mankin, Kendrick and Etheridge presented two bills in the house affecting East Point. One would allow East Point to annex land between that city and College Park and Hapeville on the east and west sides if a majority of the registered voters in the affected areas vote favorable in a referendum to be held between April 1 and September 1.

Planning Commission. The other measure, containing approximately 65 clauses, creates a planning and zoning commission for East Point, establishes a number of new positions in the public works and other city departments, specifies duties of the mayor and council, gives the city the power to tax or banish billboards and other roadside advertisements, and authorizes censorship of motion pictures, books, literature, radios and pictures, plays and acts.

Mrs. Mankin said the bill was approved by the East Point mayor and council and merely strengthens the existing charter.

The senate yesterday passed and sent to the Governor a permissive bill allowing Fulton county to grant pensions to its employees; another to authorize the county to set up a sewerage department, to extend the term of the county clerk from two to six years, and another to allow the county to set up a system of fire prevention and protection.

Annexation of two small plots adjacent to Decatur also was authorized in two DeKalb county bills.

SEEK RECOVERY OF $50,000,000 COTTON PENALTY

Alabama Suit Attacking Constitutionality of Control Act of 1934 Will Serve as Test.

DOTHAN, Ala., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Recovery by southern farmers of an estimated $50,000,000 paid for certificates exempting penalty taxes on cotton produced above federal quotas was sought today in United States district court.

A suit, filed by J. Hubert Farmer in behalf of T. J. Cook, cotton planter, attacked constitutionality of the 1934 federal cotton control act.

Although Cook sought return of only $1,531, Farmer termed the case a test bearing on all money paid by Dixie planters for the tax exemption paper.

In Washington, Agriculture Department officials expressed opinion the Dothan suit was the first of its kind, and it was pointed out congress last session voted to refund the above-quota penalty tax to growers who actually paid it into the treasury, but there was no provision to compensate farmers who purchased the certificates.

One Agriculture Department official pointed out the government never received the money for the certificates, since it went to farmers who had excess certificates to sell, and therefore no refunds could be made.

The 1934 cotton control act, seeking to cut production, imposed a penalty tax on cotton produced in excess of pound quotas stipulated by the government for individual farmers. The cotton act was repealed after the United States supreme court invalidated certain phases of President Roosevelt's original AAA.

Attorney Farmer said the suit filed here contended southern planters paid to the government a penalty in lieu of a tax.

COTTON "FREEZING" URGED BY BAILEY
WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Senator Bailey, Democrat, North Carolina, expressed the opinion today the government should continue to hold 11,400,000 bales of loan cotton for at least three years and be prohibited from selling any part of it for less than 12 cents a pound.

He said in a statement that the government "has what the operators used to call a corner on cotton" and sale of any great portion of it would break the price.

"On the other hand, if it holds the cotton for 12 cents, I think it will get that figure," Bailey added. "I hope no farmer will plant cotton this year in expectation of profitable prices under any circumstances. Granted that cotton is so low that better prices may be hoped for, the planting of a big crop would extinguish the ground of this hope."

'Glamour Girl' in a Day? --- Here's How It's Done

A girl in your neighborhood goes to Hollywood . . . Oh, yes, you remember her! . . . That little girl who lived up the street . . . Just another average Atlanta girl. . . Next you hear from her, she's bowling over a delighted nation. . . The year's "Glamour Girl" . . . H'mmm! . . . How did she do it? . . . "Glamour Girl of the Year" . . . About 20 years ago, they called them the "It Girls" . . . How do they do it? . . . It's very simple. . . Here it is done for you with an Atlanta girl, who is remaining right here in Atlanta, and it was all worked out in an Atlanta beauty parlor, all in the short space of one morning . . . Yesterday morning, while it was raining . . . Hollywood has no patent on all the tricks. . .

It's a woman's prerogative how she does her hair, but hair stylists say it makes a lot of difference in her appearance. Experts are advocating plenty of "swing" to lady's coiffure, and here is Miss Billie Baggs, pretty young Atlantan, illustrating the change up and down makes in a girl's appearance. Above, her hair is accenting the "downbeat" . . .

... piquancy of her features. Here, she is serious in the "before" photo, but in the "after" picture illustrates the increased sophistication gained by drawing the hair away and up to be crested with a crown of blond curls of a fascination past questioning.

This is another pose showing Miss Baggs with her hair billowing around her shoulders. It's a style of "hair-do" that has been extremely popular with the girls of late as they went their various interesting ways. But, the experts say, it is fading in favor of a moderate "up-swing" . . .

WELDING SOCIETY TO MEET MONDAY
N. Y. Engineer Will Address State Organization.
The Georgia section of the American Welding Society will meet Monday night in the chapel of the Academic building of Georgia Tech to hear A. N. Kugler, New York welding engineer and designer.
Kugler is a graduate of the Stevens Institute of Technology and a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the American Welding Society. His address, on "Structural Steel Welding in New York City," will be illustrated with motion pictures.

George Byrd, president of the Georgia section, has invited everyone interested to attend. The motion pictures includes shots of the first all-welded building constructed in New York.

Bad Breath May Show You Need This Help!
Bad breath is sometimes due to decaying food particles between and around the teeth and it is often caused by constipation. Two things are sure about it. It offends. You ought not to tolerate it. To neglect Bad Breath due to constipation may invite a host of the other symptoms of sluggishness: headaches, biliousness, loss of appetite and energy.
What's the use letting constipation slow you up when it is so easily relieved by an all vegetable product known to thousands everywhere.

... But in this picture, made after a visit to an Atlanta hair stylist, the emphasis is on the "up-swing." Miss Baggs is charming in both photographs, but note the glamour the "up-swing" brings to her face. The stylist designed the effect to fit her type of beauty and the pictures show it sets off the . . .

This "half-do" places the accent on youth, all right, but it also gives a definite grace to the neck and shoulders which the low-swinging "hair-do" does much to hide. Eastern hair stylists are strongly advocating something of this type for tall and willowy girls, especially. The effect is extremely pleasing.

... in which classification this type of hair dress comes. It is neither drastic nor radical, but is modern and streamlined. The curls soften any brusqueness in the "up-swing" and lend a young-girlish atmosphere to the face they adorn. Miss Baggs, who is employed at the state capitol, formerly attended Brenau.

CITY EQUIPMENT BIDS ARE OPENED
New Water System Pumper May Cost $167,585.
Bids on city equipment and supplies amounting to approximately $175,000, including a new pumper for the water department, were opened yesterday by the purchasing committee.

The committee referred the bids on the pumper to the engineer of the water department for study and tabulation. Lowest bid, submitted by Burford, Hall & Smith, was $167,585. The new pumper will replace two inactive pumpers, one of which was installed in 1894 and the other in 1904. W. Zode Smith, superintendent of the water department, said.

Contracts were awarded for purchase of approximately $5,000 in other supplies, including several thousand feet of new hose for the fire department, Lloyd Walker, purchasing agent, said.

RAMSPECK HAILS 'VICTORY' ON RATES

I. C. C. Action Emphasizes Need for Legislation, Says Georgia Congressman.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 27.—Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Georgia, leader of the recently organized freight rate revision bloc in the house, said tonight he regarded the preliminary ICC report and decision today on specified commodity rates in the southeast as a distinct victory in the fight that is being waged to eliminate discriminatory freight tariffs.

"While I have not yet had an opportunity to see the report," said Ramspeck, "I am informed that it upholds the major contention of those of us who are seeking a revamping of the national rate structure to correct present discriminations. Although it remains to be approved by the full commission, it may be construed as a distinct victory for the several efforts that have been made."

"At the same time, however, the ICC action simply emphasizes the need for legislation on the subject. Only a small group of specified commodities are involved in the present case, and the way will be open for carrying the case to the courts later by opponents of the revision even if the full commission sustains the preliminary action today."

"Today's action, therefore, will spur members of the rate revision bloc in congress on to more determined efforts to obtain corrective legislation this session."

"Rather than leave the discriminations to be moved piecemeal by the commission we want to pass a bill that will put shippers of all sections of the country on an equal parity with one stroke. If redress is not accomplished in this way final action may be delayed in the courts for years."

Eet Ees Terrific!
Lupe Will Wed
'Beeg' Playboy

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Lupe Velez came to town today with an announcement to top that of her soon-to-be ex-husband, Johnny Weissmuller.

She announced she was going to get married, and right away. That is, she said, as soon as she can hop over to Reno and get a "quack" divorce.

Weissmuller said the other day that as soon as his divorce from Lupe is final, in August, he intends to wed Beryl Scott, of San Francisco.

Lupe said she couldn't wait until August to marry a man whom she would describe only as a "beeg New York playboy."

Lupe is here to make a picture. She has an engagement to make another in Mexico City. Between pictures, she said she hopes to spend the six necessary weeks in Nevada.

Her romance? "Eet ees wonderful," said Lupe.

REPORT ON RATES VICTORY FOR SOUTH

out of the south in large quantities, he added that he saw no reason why the remaining commodities should not receive the same treatment.

"The issue was the same in all cases," Judge Watkins said. "The ICC commissioner and examiner just have not reached the other commodities."

The report, containing a 20,000-page transcript of the hearings conducted in Birmingham, Buffalo and Washington, was filed with the commission by Commissioner William E. Lee and Examiner Michael Corcoran.

It held that the rates reported on are "and for the future will be, unreasonable, to the extent they are on levels higher than at present in effect on like articles within the north."

Like Articles.
"The desirability of rate structures providing reasonably uniform rates on like articles which are or may be produced in different sections of the country from such sections to common markets, is not open to serious question," the report said.

"The maintenance on such articles of rates reflecting territorial differences in rate levels, thereby creating rate walls along the borders of rate territories, tends to prevent a nation-wide development of industry and is not conducive to the promotion of the best interests of either the carriers as a whole or the country as a whole."

The northern, or "official" rate territory, is bounded roughly on the south by the Ohio and Potomac rivers and on the west by the Mississippi river.

The report pointed out that although the rates on only a limited number of commodities were at issue, "there are principles involved in passing on the lawfulness of these rates, to which the complaint and the evidence introduced in support thereof are largely addressed, the determination of which probably affect the rates not only on the commodities specifically named in the complaint, but on other traffic as well."

Uniform Rates Sought.
The Lee-Corcoran report, arguing for reasonably uniform rates, said:

"The prosperity of the carriers depends not alone on the development of the territories which they individually serve, but on the welfare of other producing and consuming sections of the country in the movement of traffic in which they participate."

The producing section, the products of which must surmount such rate walls to reach common markets, and must at the same time

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt Resigns Membership in Policy Difference

Refuses To Confirm or Deny That Organization Involved
Was the Daughters of the American Revolution, Which Barred Negro Singer From Concert Hall.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt refused questions today as to the Daughters of the American Revolution today when asked if she was resigning from the D. A. R. because of its denial of Constitution Hall to Marian Anderson, famous negro singer, for a concert here April 9.

Phoenix, Ariz. Mrs. Henry M. Robert, president-general of the D. A. R., declined to comment. Constitution Hall, one of the larger auditoriums here, is owned by the D. A. R.

Although refusing to name the group, Mrs. Roosevelt said she was resigning from "an organization" because she could not actively fight an action by it which she disapproved.

Clash in Policy.
She explained that she felt a member of an organization should work within it to end policies with which the member did not sympathize, or should resign.

When the war press conference tried to identify the organization, she good-naturedly parried their questions.

Asked flatly if it was the D. A. R., she said the D. A. R. should answer that.

And the organization would have to give her reasons, she said, in reply to questions whether her displeasure was related to protests by some artists and others that Marian Anderson's failure to get Constitution Hall was due to racial prejudices and not to a manager's assertion.

Confirms Telegram.
Mrs. Roosevelt readily confirmed, however, that she had sent a telegram to a mass meeting held yesterday to protest what leaders termed the "exclusion" of the singer from Constitution Hall and from Central High school here.

She said her message read: "I regret extremely that Washington is to be deprived of hearing Marian Anderson, who is a great artist."

Although the D. A. R. has made no statement, Frederick Hand, Constitution Hall manager, said that the hall had been booked more than a year ago by the National Symphony orchestra for the afternoon of April 9. Sponsors of the Anderson concert sought the hall for that night.

Hand said that when the hall was booked for one event, it was not given to another organization on the same date.

The school board denied use of the Central High auditorium on the grounds the concert was a commercial venture. The concert sponsors have asked for a rehearing Wednesday.

Toscanini Praise.
The contralto, who has been characterized by Arturo Toscanini as the world's greatest singer, gave a recital for President and Mrs. Roosevelt in the White House two years ago.

On February 21, 1937, Mrs. Roosevelt wrote in her column: "My husband and I had a rare treat Wednesday night in listening to Marian Anderson, a colored contralto, who made a great sucmeet the competition of other producing sections, the products of which are not subjected to the same transportation burden, cannot develop unless, and then only to the extent that, in the difference in transportation charges can be offset by lower production costs or absorbed by a reduction in profits.

"Even though differences in transportation charges can be thus offset or absorbed, this in itself tends to retard the growth and prosperity of such producing sections. In these circumstances, therefore, it is apparent that on many articles the relation of the rates may be of greater importance than their actual level or measure."

"If the southern lines are willing to sacrifice a part of their present revenues to move such traffic, it is difficult to conceive of any just reason why northern carriers should not be required to join them, for it is in the northern level of rates which the southern carriers desire to establish."

"Surely the northern level cannot be claimed as other than reasonable for it is the basis charged northern shippers."

27 Per cent Higher.
The Southeastern Governor's Conference, now headed by Governor Rivers, launched the fight for rate parity after it had shown that the present schedules provide for rates from 27 to 41 per cent higher on southern goods moving north of the Ohio river than on goods moving in the area north of the river or in what is known as "official territory."

The Lee-Corcoran report covered stoves, stone, castiron pipe fittings, castiron service boxes, brass pipe fittings, soapstone and talc and a "few other kindred articles."

Commissioner Lee and Examiner Corcoran declared "in view of the rather extensive revision which the findings require it seems desirable from a practical standpoint that in the first instance the parties should attempt to agree upon specific bases which are to be established with subsequent reference to the commission of any details upon which any agreement cannot be reached."

This was taken to indicate that Commissioner Lee and Examiner Corcoran believe that the railroads should put into effect lower freight schedules of their own volition before the ICC makes the revision mandatory.

Ready to Step In.
The report would indicate that the commission is ready to step in when the roads and the shippers fail to agree on the new schedules. Governor Rivers said he felt that the roads should immediately order out the discriminatory rates.

"The railroads have lost their case," he said. "It is up to them to put the new rates into effect immediately or the ICC will do it for them." The Governor said, "I believe southern business is just before getting out from under the greatest burden ever inflicted upon it."

Governor Prentice Cooper, of Tennessee, hailed the recommendation for lower freight tariffs as the south as "the removal of an artificial barrier to southern progress."

"I look forward," he added, "to the time when every vestige of discrimination against the south will cease."

The south can now look forward with "renewed assurance of greatly improved times," he said.

Governor Frank M. Dixon of Alabama, said: "If that principle is established, it is a real victory."

Officials of the Atlanta Freight Bureau, of which E. L. Hart is secretary and traffic manager, were jubilant that the south was as victorious for their cause.

The bureau has been active in the fight from its inception.

Lower freight rates for the south were requested by governors of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, North and South Carolina.

The conference of New England governors, joined with the chief executives of New York, New Jersey and Delaware, together with public service commissions and chambers of commerce from the east to the middle west, in fighting the south's proposal.

Meanwhile, the senate interstate commerce commission yesterday conducted hearings on bills by Senator Kenneth McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, and others to forbid the ICC to grant "undue or unreasonable" advantages to shippers in any region. The bills proposed abolition of sectional freight rate differentials.

ANY COMMENT
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Marian Anderson, negro contralto, said today "it would be very interesting" if Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had quit the Daughters of the American Revolution because that organization snubbed the singer.

"But I cannot comment in any way," she said.

SAYS BIRTH CONTROL BREEDS OUT BRAINS

Raising Low Quality Citizens, Educator Tells School Conclave.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Speakers told the American Association of School Administrators tonight that birth control is "rapidly breeding the brains out of the American people" and that when nearly a million Californians vote for $30 every Thursday there is a "need to re-examine the public school program of Iowa." (Apparently referring to the large number of former Iowans in California.)

The result of birth control, said Miss Mary B. McAndrew, superintendent of Carbondale, Pa., schools, challenges educators to make the most of the "seemingly low quality child" and to realize "the root of every tragedy, whether it is behaviorism, decayed homes, unemployment or Communism, is lack of education."

"Advocates of family limitation have lost sight of the appalling cost of birth control to society," she said in an address drafted for a session of approximately 10,000 educators affiliated with the association.

"We are raising more and more low quality citizens. This breeding from the bottom up means more juvenile delinquency, more crimes, more public charges and unemployables, fewer real leaders."

Jackrabbit Carries Spares!
One Found With 4 Ears

BRIGHAM CITY, Utah, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A jackrabbit ordinarily has "plenty" of ears with just two of 'em. Hunters in a rabbit drive near here killed one with four ears.

"I look forward," he added, "to the time when every vestige of discrimination against the south will cease."

The south can now look forward with "renewed assurance of greatly improved times," he said.

Governor Frank M. Dixon of Alabama, said: "If that principle is established, it is a real victory."

Officials of the Atlanta Freight Bureau, of which E. L. Hart is secretary and traffic manager, were jubilant that the south was as victorious for their cause.

The bureau has been active in the fight from its inception.

Lower freight rates for the south were requested by governors of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, North and South Carolina.

The conference of New England governors, joined with the chief executives of New York, New Jersey and Delaware, together with public service commissions and chambers of commerce from the east to the middle west, in fighting the south's proposal.

Meanwhile, the senate interstate commerce commission yesterday conducted hearings on bills by Senator Kenneth McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, and others to forbid the ICC to grant "undue or unreasonable" advantages to shippers in any region. The bills proposed abolition of sectional freight rate differentials.

C. E. Childs, transportation counsel of Omaha, Neb., told the committee that elimination of the differentials would help solve the nation's labor and farm problems, and increase railroad revenues.

Childs said that rate reductions should be ordered in the west and south. Inequalities exist between various sections, he said. Rates from the Pacific coast to the east, he asserted, are less than rates to some intermediate points because of water competition.

"Fairly uniform class rates are maintained in the east," Childs said. "The class rate in the east is 25 to 50 per cent less than the class rate on the south and west. Shipments up to 500 miles cost 46 per cent more immediately west of the Mississippi than in the east, 60 per cent more in the southwest, 85 per cent more in west Texas and 41 per cent more in the south."

"A decentralization of industry is needed for the welfare of the country," he said, "and the way to get it is by fixing equitable freight rates."

Flown 295 Miles to Doctor

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Gloria Ann Griego, aged 2, swallowed a penny Saturday. The coin stuck in her throat. A local physician tried unsuccessfully to dislodge it. So she had a 295-mile airplane ride to El Paso, Texas, where a surgeon removed the coin.

DO THEY AVOID YOU?
Do good bridge players sigh when they draw you for a partner? Are you one of those people who just "plays bridge," and when you might easily sharpen your game into the expert class, you play the "just ordinary" class into that of a high-grade player.

Nothing—not even contract bridge playing—is worth doing unless it's worth doing well. This booklet is simply, clearly, interestingly written, and embodies the latest practice of the masters of the game, so explained that a player of ordinary intelligence can easily grasp the fine points of the game and apply them to improve his own play. Texas and New Jersey Teams Enter National Finals Here

All in the GAME

by Jack Troy

Another quail season in Georgia is drawing to a close, accompanied by rain and cold. But this won't stop enthusiastic hunters from participating in the last two days.

Final shots will be fired at "first dark" Wednesday. The Bob White family then will be left alone (we hope) until another season.

Reports have it that the quail season, drawing to a close, was just fair. Birds were not as plentiful as in the past.

Several reasons have been given by hunters, but the chief one seems to concern laxity on the part of the State Game and Fish Department in propagation of game and also alleged failure to apprehend and punish "meat hunters."

All season long hunters have complained of commercial hunting. That is to say, trapping and slaughtering of birds to sell. This is strictly against the law, of course, but apparently it goes on anyway.

In commercial hunting, entire coveys are wiped out. A fellow shoots a covey and then either traps the entire family or goes after it with a "blunderbuss" and doesn't stop until the last bird is dead.

A continuance of such methods would mean eventual extinction of quail in Georgia. And this is what the real sportsmen of the state are fighting against.

The state is dotted with clubs whose members are interested in the conservation and propagation of game and fish. And their earnest desire is that the present session of legislature will approve a bill to put the State Game and Fish Department in the hands of a citizens' commission.

Combined forces of the state's citizenry interested in the future welfare of Georgia as a place to hunt and fish could go a long way toward putting an end to the lawless element.

Otherwise, Georgia, which actually has more natural resources than any other state, soon will be engaged in another lost cause. Georgians won't have anything to hunt and naturally there won't be any revenue derived from outsiders who would like to visit for the purpose of hunting and fishing.

Hunting and fishing could be a tremendous industry in Georgia. All that's needed, apparently, is a systematic plan of conservation and propagation.

It may be that the bill which has been introduced covers all the needs. Many Georgians think so, anyway. But their hands will be tied if the legislators fail to act favorably on the measure.

Now is the time for all Georgia sportsmen to get in touch with their representatives. A suggestion here, and a little push there, will help a lot.

YORK SIGNED FOR ARM.

When Rudy York showed off from Cartersville the other day to join Detroit in spring training at Lakeland, Fla., the story of his signing by the Tigers was recalled.

Rudy went to Knoxville as a third baseman and asked for his release when he discovered it was hopeless to try to beat out his rival for the job. The rival happened to be manager.

So, with Rudy free of entanglements, so to speak, Eddie Goostree promptly signed him to a Beaumont contract for Detroit. Wiring Jack Zeller, now general manager but then chief scout, Goostree said, "I've just signed you a goat named Rudolph York. I don't know what position he can play, so it will be your job to find out, but he has $250 worth of arm and that is just what I paid him to sign."

Today it's not the York arm that is so valuable to Detroit. It's his powerful bat. The Cartersville boy is one of the fanciest sluggers in the American league.

And Detroit never yet has settled on what position he should play. He is a natural first baseman, but Hank Greenberg has a lock on the job. Rudy is no bargain as a catcher but refuses to play in the outfield.

Detroit wouldn't trade him because of his hitting prowess. And so it's a real problem. They don't know where to play him and yet they can't afford to keep him out of the lineup.

TRUCKS SIGNED FOR A SONG.

Eddie Goostree also pulled a neat coup in the signing of Virgil (Fire) Trucks, the boy wonder who set an all-time strike-out record as a pitcher for Andalusia last summer.

Before the season opened, Trucks was signed for $100 and Goostree didn't even sign him a song. The boy is due to pitch for Beaumont this season.

Trucks is considered as neat a find as Bob Feller, baseball men saying Feller at his fastest has nothing on Trucks. The youngster pitched an exhibition game here last season and once in a while cut loose with a strike that appeared as a white streak under the lights.

Observers believe that he will have more pitching success than Feller since there is no jerk to his delivery. He pitches with a smooth, easy motion. Up to date his control over a curve ball hasn't been so good, but that's expected to come around in time.

ROWE IS ARM-CONSCIOUS.

Schoolboy Rowe, who gave the Crackers little trouble in the Dixie series, is in training with Detroit at Lakeland complaining that the fans won't let him forget about his arm.

It's only natural they won't. Rowe is one of the big stories of baseball now. He staged a successful comeback with Beaumont, but lost two games to Atlanta.

You can't hold the Atlanta losses against him, however, because the Crackers of last year were that kind of a team. They didn't recognize greatness in the opposition. Everybody looked alike to them.

Rowe says his arm is fine and maybe it is. Detroit is banking on it being okay. He didn't show the old zip against Atlanta, however. He had plenty of stuff but no fast ball.

A lot of big league pitchers have been successful without one and Rowe may return to the big top as a better pitcher than ever, relying on head and experience rather than brute strength.

Rowe is a nice fellow personally and the Atlanta club is pulling for him to stage a successful comeback.

Georgia Boy Named Army Cage Captain

WEST POINT, N. Y., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Cadet Alvin C. Gillem, son of Colonel A. C. Gillem, of Fort Benning, Ga., has been elected captain of the army basketball team for the next season, it was announced today.

The election, according to custom, was held on the train as the Cadets returned from their victory over Navy at Annapolis Saturday.

Gillem was a substitute on this year's all-senior varsity but saw considerable service when Walter Brinker, Army's chief point-maker, was on the sick list near the end of the season.

Roxborough Agrees to Match in Phone Conversation With Jacobs.

DETROIT, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis will defend his title against Tony Galento, the rotund Orange, N. J., contender, in New York in the last week of June, John Roxborough, manager of the negro boxer, announced tonight.

Confirming advices from Miami Beach, Fla., that the bout awaited only formal announcement from Promoter Mike Jacobs, Roxborough said he had agreed to the match in a telephone conversation with Jacobs.

"I told Jacobs," Roxborough said, "that Joe would fight anybody if conditions were right—meaning conditions were such that the bout would draw."

Roxborough said Jacobs informed him he believed New York would support the fight.

Fight observers generally have been skeptical of Galento's business in the ring with the champion despite the pugny one's string of knockouts. The opinion of experts has been that Champion Joe would swat Tony out of there in a hurry.

In view of this, Roxborough indicated he had been luke-warm to the match. He expressed the opinion tonight that "New York is the only place that would support it."

'SPIKE' NELSON GOES TO YALE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Emerson W. "Spike" Nelson, head football coach at Mississippi State College, has accepted the appointment of line coach of the Yale varsity, Malcolm Farmer, chairman of the Yale Athletic Association, announced tonight.

Nelson succeeds Marshall Wells, coach at Yale for three seasons, who resigned last week. He started his coaching at his alma mater, Iowa State, was line coach at Louisiana State for six years and was head coach at Mississippi State last season. He will come to New Haven next week.

Jim Tatum Added To Tars' Staff.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—R. A. Feltzer, University of North Carolina director of Athletics, announced today that Jim Tatum, now coaching at Cornell, had accepted appointment as freshman coach of football and baseball at the university here, effective July 1.

Tatum, a native of McColl, S. C., starred in both football and basketball for North Carolina before his graduation before his graduation in 1935.

He went to Cornell in 1936 as an assistant to Carl Snavely, head coach under whom he had played years.

Pop Cassell Is Named American U. Director.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(UP)—American University tonight announced the appointment of Stafford (Pop) Cassell as athletic director, succeeding Gus Welch, one-time football star with the Carlisle Indians.

Cassell, assistant director until today, was given a two-year appointment effective immediately. He is a native of Pennsylvania and was graduated from the university in 1936.

Franco and Pierce Will Assist Crouley.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(UP)—Nat Pierce and Ed Franco, former football players, today were appointed assistants to James Crouley, head coach at Fordham. They will replace Frank Leiby, who resigned to take a job as coach at Boston College.

J. P. C. AND GREER VIE WEDNESDAY

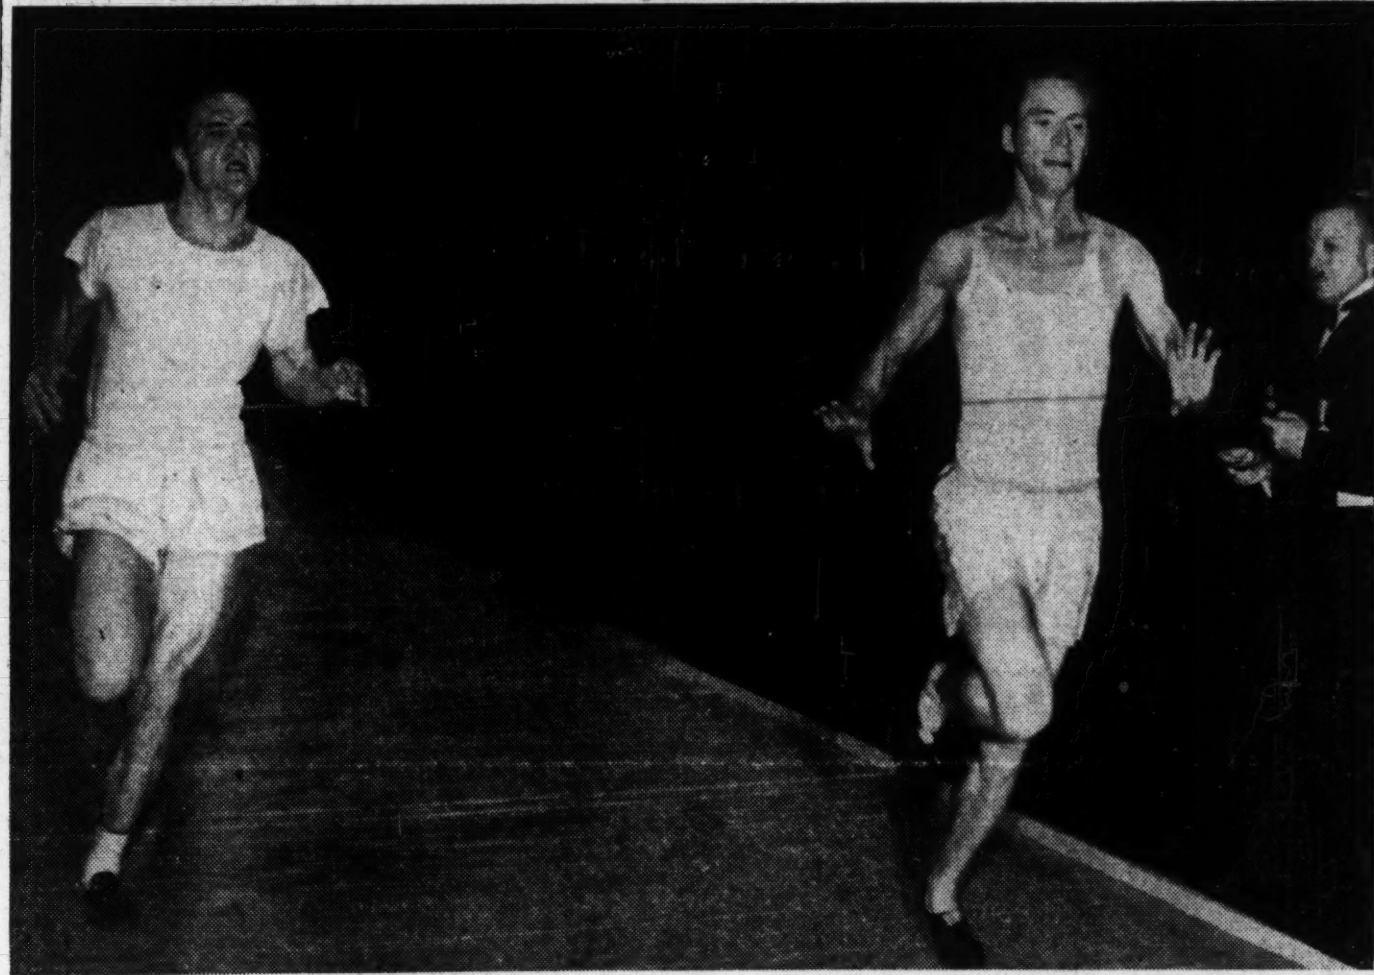

Coach Harold Bennett's Progressives will be seeking their 19th victory of the season Wednesday night when they encounter the powerful Victory Mills team from Greer, S. C., in the final game of the season for the J. P. C. squad.

Victor Saturday night won the Class A title of the annual Southeastern industrial basketball tournament staged at Spartanburg, S. C. They beat Drayton in the final.

Forward John Emery and Guard Roy Durham, of Victor, were named on the all-tournament first team, and Ted Cabiness, guard, who paced the Greer squad in the final game with 12 points, was given honorable mention.

Coach C. L. Horton will bring a squad of eight men, including Stanford Giles, Buddy Norell, John Emery, Alvin Walters, Ted Cabiness, Donald Jackson, Wilson Pruitt and Roy Durham. The Progressives won a hard-fought victory from the Birmingham Y. M. H. A. in their last game. They were on the short end of the score most of the time, and had to stage a gallant last-half rally to emerge victorious.

NOT AS CLOSE AS IT LOOKS—JACKET RUNNER IS A LAP BEHIND

Don Lash (right) seems to be hard pressed by Robert Aldridge (left), of Georgia Tech, as Lash won the 5,000-meter championship at the National A. A. U. indoor track and field meet in New York Saturday. But Aldridge is a full lap and then some behind the ironhorse of the Indiana state police, who set a new citizens' and meet record of 14 minutes, 30.9 seconds for the distance. This was 8.1 seconds better than the mark he set in the same meet a year ago.

TWO BRACES RUN IN BIG DOG DERBY

Grand National To Last Seven Days; Rain Is Handicap.

By GEORGE M. ROGERS.

AMERICAN FIELD MAGAZINE. GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., Feb. 27.—The forty-fourth renewal of the national championship, blue ribbon classic of the bird dog world, began here today with 28 dogs vying for the title, including 22 pointers and 6 setters gathered from all parts of the country.

The bird dogs run three-hour races, consequently only two braces a day are witnessed. Under the most favorable circumstances, seven days will be consumed before the 1939 titleholder is declared.

The opening brace was Navasota Shoals Jake, pointer, owned by W. V. Bowles, of Houston, Texas, and Queen Anne Rodney, setter, belonging to George E. Burke, of Indianapolis, Ind. Jake searched well and had three beavies well handled. Anne connected frequently, but her range was not desirable, for she was frequently behind. Her total showed seven beavies and five singles.

Walter C. Teagle's pointer female, Norias Aeroflow, was braced with Village Scandal, another pointer, owned by Miss Marie Nichols, of Fort Moultrie, S. C.

Conditions were abominable for it rained—practically the entire three hours, a veritable downpour, during the final 60 minutes.

Aeroflow had two beavies and two singles. Scandal had a single and later pointed a bevy previously disturbed. Both ran well.

Tuesday morning Uncas Flying Devil and Tallgear Sam will compete. The afternoon heat brings out Semaphore and Tennessee Jo.

Judges are Hobart Ames, of Boston, Mass.; Dr. T. Benton King, of Brownsville, Tenn.; and Nash Buckingham, of Memphis, Tenn.

"Sinister Dick" Kinsella, former Giant scout who discovered both Carl Hubbell and Jo Jo Moore is taking boys in Hot Springs. Dick now is quite a politician around Springfield, Ill.

REDS CLASS OF LEAGUE

BRANCH RICKEY Can't see Cardinals.

Card Vice President Says Yankees To Stage Another Runaway.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Cincinnati, says Branch Rickey, vice president of the Cardinals, will be the class of the National league this year.

Rickey, here for a week-end visit with his daughter, Alice, a student at Swarthmore College, added that in the American league "nobody has a chance until something happens to the Yankees."

He told reporters his own team, from present appearances, is second division material.

AID TO GOLFERS.

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Edward L. Cheyney, chairman of the amateur status committee of the United States Golf Association, said here today reports could offer amateur golfers special rates and privileges, provided they are open to all entrants in a tournament.

The Spotlight

TO SEABISCUIT

(Whenever His Next Start.)

You've run from Maine to Texas and from Texas back to Maine. You've hit the dirt of southern clay and scoured the western plain. You've traveled north and south and east—the west was in your stride. You've battled high and low alike—to give 'em all a ride.

You've taken dust of platters and you've given dust to kings. You've sloped on worn and soggy feet; you've flown on golden wings. You've left your box car for a stake—you never had much pride. But when they sounded, "There they go"—you gave 'em all a ride.

You're run in tank towns and the tops—to you they both were one. For all you wanted was the chance to get out here and run. To hear the thud of hoof and hoof, and to the final test—And if they beat you—wotthe!—they had to beat your best.

You may be plater, here and there, and second-rate in part. But Man o' War runs second when they talk about the heart. Your creaking knees may wobble, but when someone says, "Let's go!" You're ready for the answer—and you give 'em all a show.

You're up my alley, Biscuit, as you move out from the gate. You run your race, you do your stuff—and leave the rest to fate. I like you better in the stretch—when it is eye to eye—They bump you and they crowd—but you keep the College Try.

ARCADIA, Cal., Feb. 27.—This is the week when a flock of thoroughbreds have $150,000 on the line as a double target. On Saturday, $100,000 will be the main offering at Santa Anita and $50,000 will be on tap at Hialeah when War Admiral and Stagehand fight out their long-awaited duel.

My two nominations at this spot are Kayak II at Santa Anita and Stagehand in the Florida classic. I liked Charley Howard's Kayak II even before Seabiscuit picked up an ankle charley horse, before it was announced that he would be on the sidelines. I liked the big, fast South American horse even better when I saw him take a beating from Tom Bragg's Bot.

Kayak, spell it either way, backwards or forwards, can fly and he can go the route. In his last time out he was just getting ready to leave the field behind at a mile and a sixteenth, just beginning to pick up steam. He'll be something to catch at a mile and a quarter, carrying only 110 pounds.

LUCAS TO TRAIN.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Charles (Red) Lucas, released from the Pittsburgh Pirates hurling corps last month, said tonight he would go to Florida soon to get into playing condition and display his wares in an attempt to catch on with some other major league club.

GENE MAKO OUT WITH COLD, FLU

Sabin, Wood and Bowen Seeded Stars in Quarter-Finals.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Only three seeded players were left in the competition for the men's national indoor tennis championship today at the conclusion of third-round matches that brought the survivors down to the quarter-finals.

The successful trio were Wayne Sabin, of Portland, Ore., No. 1, who eliminated J. Norman Anderson Jr., of Forest Hills, 6-1, 10-8; Sidney B. Wood Jr., of New York, second-seeded former Davis cup ace, and Wimbledon champion, who turned back S. Ellsworth Davenport III, of Forest Hills, 6-2, 6-2; and Frank J. Bowden, of New York, No. 4 seed, who put out Edward J. de Gray, 6-3, 6-8, 6-2.

Gene Mako, of Los Angeles, who had been seeded second in his first indoor tourney, was forced to withdraw due to a combination of gripe and a bad sore throat, and Joey Fishbach, national junior indoor title-holder, and Gregory Mangin, veteran four-time former champion, were the victims of upsets.

Fishbach, ranked at No. 6, found the volleying ability of John Shown, of Chicago, more than a match for his steadiness and went out at 8-6, 8-6. Mangin, no longer in peak physical condition, lost to Gus Ganzmuller, former Columbia basketball player, 6-1, 6-3.

Roy Rogers Dies At Baxley Home

Roy Rogers, nationally known sports figure, passed away yesterday.

For a number of years he was superintendent of Robert W. Woodruff's Lehuway plantation, near Newry, and was acquainted with numerous sportsmen. He was one of the outstanding hunters and bird dog men of the state. His reputation as a hunter and developer of dogs was nationally known. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at his old home in Baxley.

FOUR VOLS MISS DRILLS—3 IN BED

Tennessee's Chances in S.E.C. Meet Dimmed as Colds Strike Team.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Tennessee's chances of winning the Southeastern conference basketball tournament opening here Thursday were dimmed today when three players were ordered to bed with colds and a fourth was unable to take part in the afternoon workout.

Coach Johnny Mauer said Co-captain Charles Higdon, reserve forward, and Jack Jennings, varsity guard, were in the university hospital with "heavy colds bordering on the flu." Reserve Guard Cheek Duncan was confined to his room.

Charles Whitaker, reserve forward, also was suffering from a cold and was absent from today's drill. Only six of the 10 players eligible for the meet worked out, Mauer said.

"All of the boys may be able to play in our opening game Thursday night," Mauer said, "but we will be handicapped by their lack of practice."

The Vols were seeded third in the meet and drew a first-round bye. They will meet the winner of the Auburn-Tulane game.

BOWLERS ENTER DOUBLES MEET

Two doubles teams signed Monday evening for the seventh annual staging of The Atlanta Constitution double bowling tournament that will be staged on the uptown and downtown Atlanta alleys on Saturday, March 18. Other entries are expected to be filed daily until the contest opens.

Beautiful gold medals will be awarded the winners in the separate men and women's division of the event.

George H. Tyler, who was absent from league and tournament competition for six months and then turned in a stellar performance to win top honors in the men's division of the Metropolitan Atlanta individual championships that was staged 10 days ago, will pair with J. Dixie, who rolled a big series that bested the 700 mark in the same event.

It may be that "youth will be served" in this popular tournament. At any rate, Preston Mason and Ed Demere, both of whom have top averages in the Prep School League, bowling with the Boys' High "Purple" team, have teamed to bowl in the event and plan to practice daily in addition to the league bowling so that they will be in top form on March 18.

Five games will be rolled in the event, with no entry fee other than game cost being charged the participants. Handicaps will apply to the scores of all bowlers and every participant will have an equal chance to be a winner. It is highly probable that entries from Columbus, Rome, LaGrange and Macon will be filed and bowl on the local drives as of last season.

The games may be rolled at either the uptown Lucky Strike or downtown Blick's Bowling Center drives and entries may be filed at either bowling center.

BISMARCK LOSES TO TRENTON '5' IN 45-43 BATTLE

Bluegrass Boys Beaten in Another Thriller, 41-39.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

A small, amazingly fast Barrett's Pavers quintet, from Trenton, N. J., with a dazzling, whirlwind attack, will smash with a rangy, resourceful Sammy's five from Dallas, Texas, tonight at Warren arena at 9 o'clock for the national independent basketball championship. At 8 o'clock, the Phantoms, from Bismarck, N. D., will engage the Brown-Formans, Louisville, Ky., in a curtain-raiser for third place.

Last night the fiery Trentons, sparked by sharp-shooting Mincey Manczak with 13 points, nosed out the Bismarck team, 45-43, in a hair-raising melee in which the lead changed almost every time a goal was shot. The fast-breaking Bismarcks led at half-time by a 19-16 margin, but in the second half the pace told on the northwesterners, who had played through the tourney with only five men. Midway of the fourth quarter, Acey Olson, crack Phantom guard, fouled out, and the Trentons kept firing away at long range with great accuracy.

The whistle found the easterners ahead by a slim two-point margin, despite great shooting by Bob Finnegan, the tournament high scorer thus far with 63 markers in the three games he has played, and tiny Nick Schneider, five feet four inches of basketball dynamite. Bob garnered 16 points, even though he was a marked man, and little Nick was high scorer for the evening with 17 scores. Flynn, Warwick and Marrie Rossi, along with Manczak, were Trenton's most potent snipers.

In the other semi-final tussle, the Texas five vanquished the Brown-Formans chiefly through their ability to shoot fouls. The Lone Star Shooters hung up 13 foul shots out of 20 tries, while the Louisville entry missed 11 of 18, which enabled the Texans to eke out a win by a 41-39 count. Both tourney finalists have won their last two starts by a two-point margin, and a struggle with anybody's nickels is in the offing when the two meet tonight.

Tall Red Connor led the Texans' attack last night with his 16 scores, and Lou Ravkin, fancy dribbling and passing guard, hung up 10 markers beside his name as well as playing a great defensive game. Rangy Mr. Adams topped the Louisville point-makers with 13, but he was also the chief foul shooter missing off-center. He missed eight of the gift variety. Hubbard and Brown played fine ball for Louisville and sank eight points each, but the defensive play and court generalship of Moneen was the really outstanding feature of the losing Brown-Forman five.

BOZEMAN LEADS IN SCORING RACE

By The Associated Press.

Charlie Bozeman, the Louisiana State sophomore center, continues as pace setter in the individual scoring race in the Southeastern conference basketball scramble, with 177 points.

Runner-up for the second week was Co-captain Prather, of Alabama, who picked up 5 points to add to his last week's total of 150. With the conference schedule over as far as L. S. is concerned, Prather has one remaining chance to clinch the Bozeman lead when the Tidemen meet Mississippi State tonight.

STUDENT-ATHLETE ASSOCIATION, Feb. 27.—(P) Dizzy Dean's salary arm is getting these days but his legs are getting weaker. He worked every day at the Chicago Cubs go through the preliminary training drills.

Moorehouse, Kibby Hartnett sent him a Diz "will do nothing except to play in and play in pepper games on the island," and added:

"We're going to start intra-college games in about a week, but Dizzy won't be any of them."

Reason Dizzy wasn't himself this year was because he was new to the good shape. This year he was going to have his legs in shape before he starts much throwing.

Federal Co-operative Markets Urged

Georgian's Bill Would Provide Government Aid for Six Groups in Each State Under U.S. Control

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Co-operative markets for the sale of all agricultural and horticultural products, with liberal federal financial assistance, would be established in every state under terms of a bill today introduced in the house by Representative Paul Brown, of Georgia.

If enacted, the legislation would authorize the secretary of agriculture to establish these markets or exchanges, not exceeding six in any one state, for the sale, exchange, storage and processing of all agricultural products, including poultry, livestock, and dairy products, and would provide funds for the acquisition of all necessary real estate and buildings.

Location of Markets. The secretary would establish the markets at localities throughout each state, having regard for the various agricultural areas served. In determining upon sites the proximity of agricultural schools and colleges would be considered.

"Markets provided for in my bill," Brown said, "would be operated under the co-operative plan, and companies or associations would be organized for that purpose. But the act would not prohibit the sale, exchange, storage and processing of all agricultural products for other than the members of such companies or associations."

Thirty per cent of all funds provided under the act would be a grant to the several marketing companies or associations and the remainder of the funds provided would have to be repaid to the federal government, with 4 per cent interest, payable annually, payments upon the principal sums advanced would be equitably amortized over a period of 30 years.

The rental to be paid also would be fixed by the secretary and proper operating expenses, maintenance, repairs, and betterments shall be used for the repayment of said advances; provided, however, that should the operations of any such marketing companies or associations justify the enlargement of the same, funds for that purpose derived from said marketing operations may be used if specifically authorized by the President.

When all of said advances, with interest, shall have been repaid title to all property of every nature held and used by said several marketing companies or associations shall vest in the federal government; but subject always to such rules and regulations as may from time to time be prescribed by the secretary of agriculture. It being the intent of this provision that as long as any such marketing companies shall be operated they shall be supervised and regulated by the secretary of agriculture.

years, the principal payments to begin on January 1 of the fifth year following the beginning of the actual operation of the several markets.

Title to all real estate and property of every character, purchased by funds advanced under the act, would be taken in the name of the secretary of agriculture as security for the repayment of the advances. When completed the markets would be leased to marketing companies or organizations to whom advances of funds were made.

The rental to be paid also would be fixed by the secretary and proper operating expenses, maintenance, repairs, and betterments shall be used for the repayment of said advances; provided, however, that should the operations of any such marketing companies or associations justify the enlargement of the same, funds for that purpose derived from said marketing operations may be used if specifically authorized by the President.

Toepel Elected To Membership By 1900 Class

To the tune of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," Dr. Theodore Toepel last week was acclaimed an honorary member of the 1900 graduating classes of Calhoun, Ivy Street and Boulevard schools— which he taught at the turn of the century.

Students who were graduated under Dr. Toepel asked him to address them at a meeting of the North Side Athletic Club of 1900. After reviewing the days when he was physical education director for Atlanta schools, his former students surprised him by electing him an honorary member of their class.

The club also decided to hold banquet meetings with former teachers as guests on the last Fridays of alternate months.

The net income derived from the operation of the several marketing companies, or associations after payment of necessary and proper operating expenses, maintenance, repairs, and betterments shall be used for the repayment of said advances; provided, however, that should the operations of any such marketing companies or associations justify the enlargement of the same, funds for that purpose derived from said marketing operations may be used if specifically authorized by the President.

ABANDONED SHIP REBOARDED; IT SINKS

Crew Returns to Derelict Sugar Boat, Fail in Struggle To Save It.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(P)—The American freighter Lillian sank today in 24 fathoms off Barnegat Light, New Jersey, 18 hours after a collision with the North German Lloyd freighter Weigand in a dense fog and choppy sea.

Her cargo, 4,600 tons of sugar from Puerto Rico, sank too, despite efforts of the skipper, F. G. Boyer, of Baltimore, and 14 of her crew to save it and salvage the ship, owned by the Bull Line, of New York.

Wearily and still wearing life belts the remaining members of the Lillian's crew returned aboard the Weigand, which arrived under her own power, her bow stove in. At sea, the Weigand had transferred Captain Boyer to a coast guard cutter for the unsuccessful salvage attempt.

The Lillian began sinking after flashing the first S O S, and her crew left the ship an hour later in two lifeboats. They bobbed about on choppy seas until picked up an hour later.

The stricken freighter drifted on for hours, her decks awash, her stern in the air, when she finally sank, she had drifted from 13 miles east to 25 miles northeast of Barnegat Light.

As the vessel settled, the seamen who went aboard again from a coast guard tug for a final salvage attempt were removed to safety.

A message to the coast guard from the salvage tug Relief, which went to the Lillian's aid, said that as the sank she nearly struck the tug under way here. The Relief presumably had a line on the freighter and was trying to tow her.

CHATHAM JURORS RAP STATE COSTS

Resolutions Oppose Further Tax Levies.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 27.—(P)—The Chatham county grand jury for the December term of superior court adopted a resolution today condemning the increasing cost of state government.

The grand jury went on record as opposing gross income, general sales or luxury tax levies.

In the resolution attached to the general presentments, the jury urged "continuance of investigation to the end that more economy be practiced in the administration of government, and that, if necessary, appropriations be cut to meet the present state revenues."

Further taxation, the jury said, "would result in additional burdens beyond the ability of the citizens to pay." The resolution noted a $12,000,000 tax increase in Georgia since 1936, $5,000,000 in salary increases for the administration, and a half-million dollar increase for traveling expenses during the same period.

Raymond M. Demere, foreman, reported the resolution was adopted unanimously.

Decatur Service League Presents Marionettes For School Children

By Sally Forth.

PUPILS enrolled in the elementary schools of Decatur have a treat in store for them when they attend the series of marionette shows sponsored by the Decatur Junior Service League.

Wednesday marks the date of the first performance, which takes place at Clairmont Avenue school at 2 o'clock. On Thursday the show will be presented at Ponce de Leon Avenue school, on Friday at Glenwood school and on Saturday at Oakhurst school. A small admission will be charged, and a large attendance of enthusiastic children is expected.

The skits were written and adapted by Mrs. William Pauley, gifted chairman of the marionette project. The animated puppets and the realistic stage settings were made entirely by Mrs. Pauley's committee, including Mesdames Charles Taylor, Richard Buskirk, Charles Young and Chase Van Valkenburg. The industrious group worked tirelessly dressing the dolls and perfecting every detail of the colorful sets.

The plays are titled "His Majesty the King," "Socco, the Clown," "The Organ Grinder and the Monkey," "Rumpelstiltskin," a three-act play, and "The Education of Sam Henry and Pety Lu." At the recent appearance of the marionette show at Winona Park and Fifth Avenue schools, youthful students were delighted by the lively antics of the puppets, and voiced their enthusiasm in lusty cheers.

NOW that skating has definitely become the vogue with all ages, the high school set is in a state of perpetual anticipation of a skating party. One of the most attractive invitations of the season was that just issued by Lewis Camp to her party next Saturday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Done in colors across the top of a card is a frieze of joyous couples all rushing in great haste toward a building designated by a sign over the door: "South's Largest Skating Rink." And that, of course, signifies that the party will be held at the huge new rink at the corner of Ponce de Leon and Penn avenues. Below is lettered the invitation, with a request for a reply to Lewis's home, 27 Northwood avenue.

These clever invitations have been issued to 225 members of the high school contingent among the friends of the popular young hostess who is a freshman at Washington Seminary. Lewis will be assisted in receiving her guests by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Camp, and serving as chaperones will be Mrs. Julia Black Wellborn, Mrs. A. K. Felix and Bill Horton.

AN INTERESTING visitor arriving today is Mrs. John C. Montgomery, of New York, who will be the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee, at her home in the Biltmore apartments. Mrs. Montgomery will come here direct from Saratoga, where she has been visiting her brother, Colonel Lee, at his winter home there.

The name "Virginia Lee," made famous in fiction, is synonymous with the state and one of its leading families. Mrs. Montgomery, who is the former Virginia Lee, claims original ownership of the name, as she was born in Virginia, at the governor's mansion in Richmond, when her father, the late General Fitzhugh Lee, was chief executive of the state.

A MIDSPRING cruise is in prospect for Mr. and Mrs. Bradford McFadden, who are counting the days until March 23, when they sail for Havana, Cuba. The McFaddens plan to attend the Louisiana bakers' convention in the latter part of March, and their sailing from New Orleans for Cuba will be a grand climax to the meeting. Such interesting places as Morro Castle, famous old cathedrals, the President's palace, sugar plantations, cigar factories, as well as many native spots in the interior of the island, will be visited by the Atlantans.

AMONG the 11 Duke University students recently elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society, is Emily Matheson, attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Matheson, of 1830 Peachtree road. Emily will be initiated into this august body at a dinner given on March 22 at the Hope Valley Country Club in Durham, N. C.

Rehearsal Party For Bridal Pair.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Behm and Miss Vella Marie Behm will entertain this evening at their home in Decatur, in compliment to Miss Myrtice Mattison and Malvin Rauschenberg Jr., following their wedding rehearsal. Yellow and white will feature the attractive decorations throughout the home and the bridal motif will be used on the tea table, which will be centered with the wedding cake. The guests will be Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mattison, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Rauschenberg Sr., Mrs. Luke Davis, of Rockhill, S. C.; Miss Eula Hancock, Miss Charlotte Behm, Dr. Louie D. Newton, Carl and Robert Rauschenberg, Wallace Mattison, Bradford Mattison, of Shreveport, La.; Ray Behm and the honor guests.

Atlanta Chapter O.E.S.

Atlanta Chapter No. 57, O. E. S., held its first initiation of the year last Friday evening at Greenfield Lodge hall, Little Five Points, with Mrs. Masie Ray, worthy matron, and T. R. Whitton, worthy patron, presiding. A business session preceded the initiation of two candidates, Mrs. Sue Martin Day and Mrs. Mary Effie Starnes. Special music was furnished by Mrs. Mary Jones and Mrs. LaVert Mitchell. After the ceremony the chapter members presented Mrs. Day with a shower of gifts, whose marriage to Stanley Day was a recent event. Mrs. Edwin Buford made the presentation. Mrs. Starnes was presented with an emblem pin by her sister, Mrs. Mabel Mathews, member of grand chapter committee and a past matron of Lebanon chapter.

Mrs. Eva Bailey, ways and means chairman for the first quarter of the year, announced that at the next meeting of the chapter the committee in charge will give a cake social. Members of other chapters are invited.

Some Men Love Parents Almost to Exclusion of Their Wives

MY DAY: First Lady Resigns From Organization

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON.—Here we are back in Washington. I woke this morning to what sounded like a real spring rain. The grass outside by window looks green and, though I suppose we will probably have a blizzard next week, at the moment I feel as though spring had really arrived.

I am having a very peaceful day. I drove my car a short distance out of the city this morning to pilot some friends of mine who are starting off for a vacation in Florida. I think this will be my only excursion out of the White House today, for I have plenty of work to do on an accumulation of mail and I hope to get through in time to enjoy an evening of uninterrupted reading.

I have been debating in my mind for some time a question which I have had to debate with myself once or twice before in my life. Usually I have decided differently from the way in which I am deciding now. The question is, if you belong to an organization and disapprove of an action which is typical of a policy, should you resign or is it better to work for a changed point of view within the organization? In the past, when I was able to work actively in any organization to which I belonged, I have usually stayed in until I had at least made a fight and had been defeated.

Even then I have, as a rule, accepted my defeat and decided I was wrong or, perhaps, a little too far ahead of the thinking of the majority at that time. I have found that the thing in which I was interested was done some years later. But, in this case, I belong to an organization in which I can do no active work. They have taken an action which has been widely talked of in the press. To remain as a member implies approval of that action, and therefore I am resigning.

I have just seen some people who are arranging for the Coronado Cuarto centennial celebration in New Mexico in 1940. All the plans for this celebration, which will begin in May, 1940, sound interesting and delightful. New Mexico has many historic spots. There is beauty and an almost foreign interest in this state which has so many ties with Spain and the South and Central American countries. I believe that 1940 will see a great awakening of interest in this part of our nation. More of our American citizens than ever before should see this land of sunshine and color. I, for one, will make every effort to make the rounds of all the exhibitions which will be available during the summer following the opening of this celebration.

While we are speaking on interesting things in the west, let me tell you that I have been sent a pamphlet by the "Save Our Redwoods League" of Berkeley, Cal., which pictures commercial exploitation of these beautiful redwood trees in the state of California. Anyone who has ever taken the drive up from the Yosemite to the state of Oregon, cannot fail to have an unforgettable picture of these giants of the forest. They have stood thousands of years. Perhaps some of them have reached maturity, but it seems to me a wicked thing to cut them down when that time arrives. Cannot either the state or the nation take a hand in preserving these forests?

Try Coaxing, If Appetite Is Poor

By Ida Jean Kain.

If you are one of those thin girls with an appetite as fickle as April weather, you will have to cater to it for a while. Instead of always eating out, try preparing a few simple meals at home. Or, dine out occasionally to break the monotony of meals at home.

Your weight-gaining program

Wrap-Around Frock

By Barbara Bell

You couldn't ask for—or make—a more practical, comfortable house dress than this apron style (1668-B). The armholes are deep and easy. That tie-around sash belt makes it possible for you to wear the waistline as snug or loose as you please—it's absolutely unhampering. And, of course, since you can spread it flat on the board, this dress is easy to iron.

But more than that, it's a very pretty thing. You'll wear it all day long, from the minute you put on the breakfast coffee till the time you dress for dinner—and know that you look well. The frill-trimmed collar, extended to waistline in front, is so becoming and fresh looking. That surprise closing always tends to make you look slimmer, too. Gingham, calico, percale and linen are pretty cottons for this.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1668-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 34 requires 5 yards of 36-inch material; 1-2-3 yards of ruffling and 4 1-2 yards of rictac.

Send for Barbara Bell's Spring Pattern Book! Make your own smart new frocks for street, daytime and afternoon, with these simple, carefully planned designs! It's chic, it's easy, it's economical—to sew your own. Each pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart to guide beginners.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Price of pattern book 15 cents. Do not send stamps. Mail orders to Barbara Bell Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. depends on the ability to eat three good meals a day and you will probably have to resort to a few tricks to make food interesting. Otherwise, you might not be able to eat enough.

None of the thin girls seem to appreciate breakfast. . . Maybe you have been boiling your coffee over and burning your toast until you would rather skip the whole thing. Try walking part of the way to work before you have breakfast and you'll be surprised at what you can do to a plate of bacon and eggs.

Some of you must reverse this process. You are tired of the corner drugstore fare and you will enjoy trying your hand with breakfast. The aroma of steaming coffee may be all that is needed to awaken your appetite but the entire meal should be tempting. If you were brought up on homemade bread, you will be surprised at the homemade breads you can buy at some of the bakeries. Look around until you find a bakery specializing in the kind your mother used to make, and have a couple of slices crisply toasted for breakfast.

There is always some way of managing to take one-third of the day's calories at breakfast. If these suggestions don't work, think up a plan of your own. And don't forget your glass of milk in the mid-morning. After you have been drinking it for a week, you will look forward to this morning beverage.

The underweight girl who is with people all day needs quiet and relaxation at dinner. Don't go to a restaurant when you have no appetite and are almost too tired to sit at a table. It would be better to have a simple supper in bed, even though you have to serve yourself. Open a can of creamed soup and have a poached egg on toast and a glass of warm milk.

You thin girls would benefit from having supper in bed once or twice a week—it's a sure way of inducing a sense of peace and relaxation. You particularly need this chance for extra rest when you have been on a late date the night before. Read awhile, or turn on the radio and listen to the music, but don't try to swing yourself to sleep. Hot music only wakes you up and makes you want to go places. Turn the light out early and get a long sleep so that you will feel brand new the next morning.

As you get along with your gaining program, you will see the results of a little daily exercise and fresh air, plenty of rest, a gradual increase in calories and a Vitamin B capsule to stimulate the appetite. Taken together as a steady routine, these are the measures that will change you from a nervous thin girl to a healthy slim girl.

Apoplexy Has No Definite Symptoms

By Dr. William Brady.

The common name for apoplexy is a "stroke" or "shock" of paralysis. Physicians refer to the condition as cerebral hemorrhage and to the consequent paralysis as hemiplegia, which means one-sided stroke, for the paralysis is usually confined to one side of the body. If the right side of the body, especially the right arm and hand is affected, usually there is more or less paralysis of speech, too, for the brain center controlling fine movements such as writing by the right arm and hand is in the left side of the brain close to the center controlling the muscles of articulation and the bleeding in such case is into the left cerebral hemisphere, generally from rupture of a small branch of the middle cerebral artery which supplies blood to that part of the brain.

Speech center of a right-handed individual is in the left side of the brain (near the base in the region of the ear). In a left-handed individual, however, the speech center is in the right side of the brain. Ambidextrous individuals, if trained to write and do other fine work with either hand or both, use both sides of the brain, are less likely to suffer aphasia (loss of speech) from a stroke, for if the hemorrhage into the brain tissue damages the speech center of one side, the already developed speech center of one side, the already developed speech center of the other side carries on. Individuals who are trained only one-handedly must start from scratch and learn to write laterally center when the active writing-speech apparatus has been put out of commission by apoplexy or other injury. This is another good reason why natural left-handedness should never be interfered with; or rather why ambidexterity should be encouraged.

Unfortunately there are no definite warning signals of impending apoplexy. Flushed face or an appearance of full-bloodedness is no more significant, perhaps less, than pallor or on anemic or thin-blooded look.

Unfortunately, too—for the victims of apoplexy, many eminent physicians, relying on their established position, still dare to perpetrate upon credulous patients such trick diagnoses as "brain fog," "nervous breakdown," the "verge of senility," "functional nervous exhaustion," or just "bad nerves." Such humbug diagnosis may not be entirely vain in cases on the callos side of 40, especially if it holds patients under observation till the doctor can get some idea what really ails 'em. But even that expedient cannot justify such quackery when the patient is over 40 years of age. In every case where a patient past 40 complains of such symptoms as fatigability, increasing restlessness, insomnia and apprehension, even though the vital organs are apparently healthy and or subnormal, the state of the arteries, and not the nerves, calls for the physician's most careful consideration.

Doctor who treats himself has a fool for a patient. Laymen who treat themselves have one for doctor. But of all fools the superlative is the layman who attempts to interpret and regulate his own blood pressure.

Applying "Third Hand High" Rule

By Harold Sharpsteen.

The conventional opening lead of the fourth highest card of a suit against an adverse notrump contract is made with hopes of eventually developing one or more tricks in that suit.

Establishment of these potential tricks depends upon close cooperation by defending partner who is expected to deliberately sacrifice his own high cards in the suit in order to help promote opening leader's cards in that suit. His task is to help drive out whatever stoppers declarer or dummy may hold in the suit.

Lower of Equals.
From this general principle comes the common slogan "Third Hand High," meaning leader's partner should play his highest card to a fourth-best opening, except when holding equals which would obviously call for the play of the lower card.

Return High Also.
It is of equal importance for third hand, upon winning the trick, to likewise return the highest card of partner's suit, remaining in his hand. In returning his highest card, opening leader is able to place the missing high cards of the suit in declarer's closed hand. Returning highest in partner's suit may also prevent blocking establishment of the suit.

(1) West opens the heart 5 against South's notrump contract and East wins with the ace. East should now lead back his heart 10.

Blocks Suit.
It will be noted that unless East returns his highest heart, his heart 10 will eventually block West's long cards.
Partner should return highest in his partner's suit holding two, three or even four of his partner's suit.

Declarer Wins Trick.

Romance is the high note in this formal evening gown Isa Miranda wears in Paramount's "Hotel Imperial." The gown combines the period influence with a modern type of formality. Shimmering, draping and black sequins embroidery are important high lights. A long train sweeps gracefully over the floor and is suspended from the wrist for dancing. Flounces of black tulle accentuate the extreme décolletage.

Woman's Quiz

Q. How may I remove the hard mineral scale that collects on the bottom and sides of my tea kettle?

A. Heating some vinegar and water in the tea kettle is one way to soften the hard mineral scale. The vinegar should be rinsed out thoroughly afterward.

Q. Why does wheat make the best flour for bread, pastry and cakes?

A. It contains proteins that combine in the presence of moisture to form gluten, which gives to wheat doughs and batters a texture and character unlike any other bread mixtures.

Selznick Considers Making "G. W. T. W." in Serial Form

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD Feb. 27.—How would you like "Gone With the Wind" as a serial? Hold on while I explain. David O. Selznick is finding it practically impossible to compress within the confines of one movie the rich and lengthy material between the covers of Margaret Mitchell's book. Recently he sent out a test questionnaire to a group of high school boys and girls asking whether they would like "G. W. T. W." as two or maybe three pictures. The larger percentage of replies were "Yes."

Personally, I think it a good idea. Serials are popular just now, and in this way we would be sure of getting the entire story of Scarlett and Rhett without the enforced cuts that will have to be made if the tale is told in one picture.

Henry Fonda will play one of the Wright Brothers in the Warner picture of that title. Gary Cooper is hoped for as the other. Hal Roach promises to spend $5,000,000 on six pictures this year. First—"The Water Gypsies," with Jean Arthur in the lead.

gets under way in May. . . The Chaplin flicker, "The Dictator," is supposed to start shooting March 15, which means that a lot of overtime will have to be done to get the very unfinished script ready in time. . . "Hardy Get Spring Fever" follows "Hardy Ride High" in the very successful series. . . Now they are talking of having Claudette Colbert play the understanding wife in "The Return of the Thin Man," replacing Myrna Loy.

Husband Turns Salary Over to His Father

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: By keeping eyes and ears open I have found enough to put me out with the life I'm leading. We live with my husband's father and mother. He works for his father. He turns over every cent to his father. His father makes all the investments and half the time my husband doesn't bother to find out what they are. He has also made over his insurance to his father and if he were to meet with an accident I would be penniless and dependent on in-laws I can't abide. I am not allowed to drive the car that is part ours and the only time I can get away to visit my family is when they want to go somewhere, don't want me along and can't leave me at home alone. My question is: Can a man love his wife and treat her this way?

DEFEATED.

Answer: My dear girl, there are some men who love their mamas and papas so dearly that there isn't much left for their wives. Evidently your husband is one of these since he favors them ahead of you, defers to them before you and gives you the crumbs. Frankly I don't know how you cope with the situation unless you have the superhuman control to make friends with the in-laws you dislike. And what woman wouldn't dislike such in-laws?

They should be ashamed of themselves to deny you the use of the car, shove you out when they want to go tripping and treat you like a minor. But they aren't. And your husband has taken a mean advantage of you in marrying you and parking you penniless and dependent on his family. You realize that you can't whip the three of them, though you may win them with pluck and tact. You can't separate your husband from them but you can separate him from you.

by being as nasty with them as you feel toward them.
CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Shouldn't a sister be interested in her brother's getting the right sort of wife and shouldn't she do all in her power to prevent this getting the wrong sort? My brother is in graduate school and he's always said that if a person wants to succeed today he must have a good education, yet he turns around and plans to marry an ignorant girl who didn't finish high school. He claims that all the college girls are planning to be career women and he wants to be the career man in his family.
GINGER.

Answer: To be sure, Ginger, a sister should be interested in her brother's getting the right sort of wife; but there's the little she can do about his getting the wrong sort beyond making herself disagreeable, antagonizing him and incurring the enmity of the bride-to-be.

Your brother is old enough to know what sort of wife he wants; but he's not knowing enough to understand that nine-tenths of the fledgling career girls can be diverted from their day dreams of fame and fortune by a few words of love and a proposal of marriage. You might put that burr in his ear, though there's little hope that it will influence him; for he wants to be the big boy to whom the little wife looks up in adoration. Maybe his sixth sense has guided him to the right girl.

A Living Room Needs Perking Up

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

It was not till I read down to the very end of the letter that I discovered that the writer wasn't a young bride. It was her handwriting, her enthusiasm, but perhaps most of all her eager interest that seemed to permeate the letter. This was not a bored or disillusioned matron thinking so many things would be too much trouble. No indeed, even if I did run into the 17-year-old daughter in the last paragraph, I still say that Mrs. E. R. R. is young and I'll bet she can wear those jaunty spring hats with as much of a flare as her daughter.

Blocks Traffic.
But she's going around in circles about her house right now. "I just don't quite know where to begin," she writes. "In the first place the wall space is all broken up so that I haven't any place for the sofa except at right angles to the fireplace and there it seems to block traffic. The other furniture includes a grand piano, a swan-neck rocker, a trill-top table, a nest of tables, two wing chairs. This furniture is all in mahogany. Recently I have bought a reseda green caracul texture broadloom rug. The walls were papered in beige in an indistinct diamond check but they're soiled from the turnage. However, it will be impossible for us to repaper just now and I wondered if I couldn't have it tinted with a water color paint—if so, what shade? The woodwork is ivory."

"I'm also planning to slip-cover the wing chairs and the sofa and perhaps reupholster the rocker. What do you think of a chintz with a red lacquer background? The curtains are another problem. I'd thought I'd use ruffled marquisette and I'd wanted them to hang to the floor. However, one window is awkwardly placed over the stairs. How would you handle this?"

"The house is a simple white Dutch colonial and I want to keep things in harmony with it. But the living room definitely needs color so I'd appreciate your help in working out a pleasant scheme. It has to be practical, as this is our only living room and with a 17-year-old daughter you can imagine that it gets constant use."

The Answer.
Why not kansasine the walls white with a pale green ceiling? Have ruffled marquisette curtains in white—think you can do the stair window the same way, only have the curtains go only to the sill on this one window. I'd like the chintz you suggest for the sofa and wing chair and perhaps as swag valances at the windows. The rocker I'd cover in a lighter green than the rug. Collect pewter or silver accessories and have picture frames in silver. I think the effect should be very crisp and fresh.

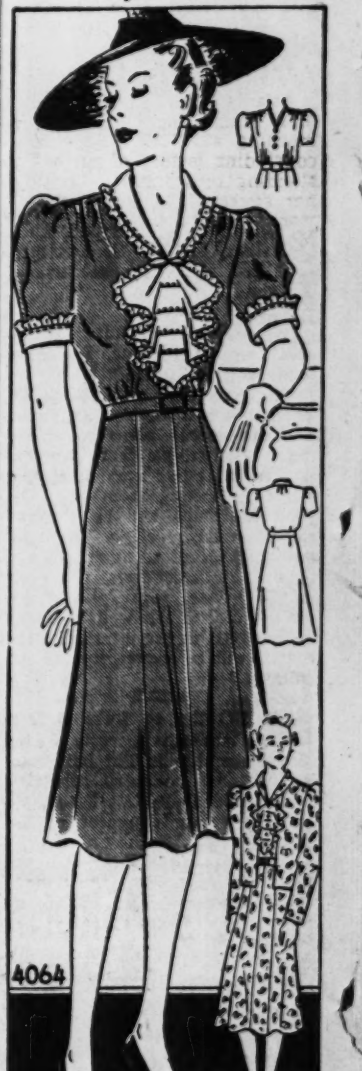

About the arrangement, couldn't you have the sofa in front of one window and draw your easy chairs near. Try to dramatize your window space since your wall space is scarce.

Jacket Ensemble

By Lillian Mae

You'll really enjoy making and wearing this . . . if your ambition is a slenderizing spring dress with serene, simple distinction in all its lines! Ensemble Pattern 4064 is gracious and smart two ways . . . with or without its jacket. The jacket changes it from an afternoon dress to a street outfit. Also—you'll find that it gives your figure new slimness! Shirrings present the bodice with the softness you like, while a double panel in the pretty short-front guarantees comfort. Instead of the exquisite "lingerie" jabot and collar, you may have a more tailored collarless V neckline.

Pattern 4064 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36, dress, takes 3 1-8 yards 39-inch fabric; collar, jabot and cuffs, 5-8 yard contrast and 3 1-2 yards lace.

Decatur Council Plans Recreation

A forum on recreation was held at the recent meeting of Decatur P. T. A. council held at Decatur Girls' high school, Mrs. W. R. Williamson, president, presided.

Coach Allen Shi, of Decatur Boys' High, discussed the value of physical education and told of the need of a definitely enlarged athletic program in various sports for the school and boyhood of Decatur.

"A well-planned recreational program and directed play for younger children are vital parts of education," Mr. Shi stated.

After a round-table discussion on "how can the P. T. A. stimulate an interest in city recreations already in operation?" the council voted to send resolutions to the city commission and recreation board commending the present facilities for play and calling attention to the need of a director of recreation.

Under direction of Mrs. Vernon Frank, recreation chairman for the council, a "play day" for parents and children will be conducted at several schools, demonstrating a well-planned playground program. Miss Honiker, principal of Clairmont, asked for the first "play day."

These demonstrations will perhaps stimulate interest in establishing more playground and increasing the attendance.

Mrs. Bert Richardson, music chairman, told of the fifth district music festival, to be held at Decatur high schools on March 17 and 18. The council and P. T. A. are co-operating with Mrs. Ruby White Brown, director of public music for the schools, and the principals in plans for the success of the festival. Approximately 50 schools have asked information for registration in the festival.

"The King of the Golden River," a Clare Tree Major play, will be presented March 16 at Decatur Girls' high school, Mrs. A. B. Burris announced.

The council voted to send delegates to the annual convention of the Association of Childhood, in Atlanta, April 10-14.

Miss Martha Burney Weds Thomas Jester

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., Feb. 27.—Of wide social interest due to the prominence of the two families and the popularity of the young couple is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Martha Ann Burney to Thomas Gordon Jester, both of this city, which was quietly solemnized February 17 in Chipley, Fla.

Rev. Clifford Walker, pastor of the First Baptist church of Chipley, officiated.

The bride's blond beauty was enhanced by her wedding ensemble of light blue woolen with matching accessories. A shoulder spray of dainty sweetheart roses completed her costume.

Mrs. Jester is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glover McCall Burney, of this city, formerly of Covington. She is a graduate of Covington High school. She attended Cox College, in College Park, and G. S. C. W. in Milledgeville.

Mr. Jester is the son of Mrs. Ruth Jester and the late J. E. G. Jester, and is a graduate of Bainbridge High school. He is now connected with the Seaboard Airline railroad and Miller Hydro Company.

After a wedding trip to Florida the young couple will reside with Mrs. Ruth Jester on Academy street.

COTTON STEADY BY BUYING OF JULY

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Following is list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange giving stocks traded:

Final Prices on New York Market Are 4 to 8 Points Higher.

NEW YORK COTTON RANGE.

NEW YORK SPOT COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON RANGE.

CHICAGO COTTON RANGE.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—(AP) The average price of middling cotton at 10 southern spot markets today was 5 points higher at 8.64 cents a pound.

The average price for the past 30 market days was 8.51 cents.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP) Active buying of July contracts by brokers acting for Bombay interests stimulated fair support for the cotton market today, and prices gained 4 to 8 points.

It was understood the Bombay buying represented the putting out of new straddles on the theory that if no government loan stocks were released during the current crop season, differences with Bombay quotations would continue to widen.

Business in coarse and semi-finished cotton cloths was moderate, but brokers continued to characterize current prices as generally "unsatisfactory." Mills were turning down business in certain types of goods at the last quoted prices.

Exports today, 39,338 bales; season so far, 2,596,795. Receipts 8,427; port stocks, 2,585,363.

COTTON ENDS STEADY IN NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—(AP) Trade and other buying supported cotton prices today, and closing prices were steady at net advances of 3 to 6 points.

M'KESSON & ROBBINS SALES SHOW INCREASE.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 27.—Preliminary figures announced today by McKesson and Robbins, Inc., relating to net sales of drugs and sundry products, showed that January of this year exceeded the preceding January by .04 per cent.

Taking into account the company's net sales, including liquor, the preliminary figures were virtually the same as those for January of 1938. The total net sales for the month were $12,070,120.95 as against $12,132,357.69 for the preceding January.

"The company began the new year on practically equal terms with the previous year," a statement issued for publication declared. "The slight decrease of half of one per cent is a distinct improvement in view of the comparative December sales which showed a decrease of 3.99 per cent."

SCOTT PAPER COMPANY PROFIT HITS NEW HIGH.

CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 27.—(AP) The Scott Paper Company today reported net earnings of $1,379,950 for 1938, equal to $2.30 per common share, compared with $2.09 a share in 1937.

The 1938 earnings, the announcement said, were the largest in the company's history.

Dividends during the year were paid at the rate of $1.80 per share, including an extra dividend of 20 cents a share. In 1937 the per share rate was $1.55, including an extra dividend of 10 cents a share.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(P)—

Stocks jogged over an uneven route in today's market with rails at the only group able to extend last week's rally.A few utilities, rubbers and specialties managed to work moderately higher while steels, railroads, mail orders and aircraft relinquished portions of their recent advance.Deals were comparatively quiet throughout. Transfers today totaled 745,425 shares, against 967-300 last Friday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up
1 1/2 points at 51.3, owing to a net gain of .3 of a point in the rail composite.Steels came back somewhat when this week's mill operations were estimated up 2 1/2 points at 55.8 per cent of capacity, a new high for the year to date. United States Steel and Bethlehem dipped at the last and finished off fractionally to more than a point.
In the curb Beech Aircraft had a 1 1/2-point gain. Fractional advances in American Light & Traction and Mesabi Iron, while off as much as Electric Bond & Share and Cities Service.
Turnover of 165,000 shares, compared with 162,000 Friday.EARNINGS INCREASE

LOVE COMES LAST

Hannah Warns Laura to Let Bart Alone, and Then Slaps Her Face

By JULIA ANNE MOORE.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Life has been very kind to her, Laura Wiley thinks, especially the two years since Andy Cooper came into it. She is successful as a fiction writer and is able to care for her sister Nina, now 21, who at times is dependent because of her trouble. Then Bartley Ford, top-rank advertising man, proposes taking over Andy's Newburg agency and making him an executive. Laura does not want to let go of Andy, but she goes to his office, kisses him and just as Laura enters says she loves him. Ford finds Laura weeping at her studio desk. Always fearful of Nina's condition, Laura tells Andy she doesn't love him and tells Ford she'd like to try radio in New York, as he had suggested. Andy knowing Laura's motive, says he'll play her game—pretending to love him—hoping to show Laura she is foolish. But Laura accepts Ford's offer of an executive position in his New York office. Andy battles with a holdup man, Nina is shot in the arm and Andy fails to get Laura on the phone, Ford's valet saying she is out with Ford. Laura has gone with Bart for a week and with Dale Cromwell, prominent in radio and an adviser to Ford. Laura has been in New York three weeks now and every night Ford has taken her out. NOW ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

"My heartiest congratulations, Miss Wiley," he said, offering his hand. Mr. Ford has just told me the good news about the Spring Dawn contract."

"Thanks," Laura said, "but they haven't signed yet, you know." Whether it was the fishy quality of his deep-set eyes or something sensed rather than seen she did not know, but from the moment of their first meeting she had distrusted and therefore disliked Adam Phillips. This sudden friendliness puzzled her.

"They'll sign," Phillips declared. "When Braden says he wants to discuss terms of a contract, he's ready to put his name on the line." He released her hand, leaned back against the desk. "Braden is a hard nut to crack," he said, affably, "I'm anxious to hear the details."

Simple courtesy permitting her no alternative, she told him substantially what she had already explained to Bart and, watching his face, became aware of some psychic change. His dead eyes were slowly coming to life and there was that in the intent way he looked at her that made her increasingly uneasy.

He asked questions. He praised her extravagantly for "having achieved what Mr. Ford himself had considered practically impossible." And unexpectedly bending over the desk, he confided:

"I haven't been since you joined our staff, Miss Wiley. You see, I couldn't be sure whether you were here because you knew something about the business or—"

He did not supply the alternative, saying abruptly, "But from now on you can count on me to give you all the assistance possible. I want you to believe that."

Laura rose. Neither what he had said nor what he had implied disturbed her so much as the way he was looking at her. He was cold sober, and yet his manner was that of a man who had had far too much to drink.

Phillips said, "Remember—when you need me, call on me." Laura said, stiffly, "Thank you, Mr. Phillips," and waited.

Without another word, he bowed deeply and strode from the room. Laura literally shook herself. Was she awake? Was this man who talked of friendship and service the same Phillips she had known since coming to the agency, the saucy, self-sufficient Phillips who had neglected no opportunity to be rude to her?

When Bart looked in shortly after five, she knew instantly he had come to propose some program for the evening and before he could speak, she said, "Believe it or not, my dear Mr. Ford, but I'm stepping out tonight. Dale Cromwell called to ask me to have dinner with him and I accepted. I suppose you wouldn't want to join us?"

He was plainly surprised, but he said, pleasantly, "Thanks, no. But I'm a little jealous. I'll have to tell Dale a thing or two when I see him—trying to steal my girl."

She could see he was genuinely disappointed and she was tempted to tell him why Dale wanted to see her. But she felt that would be betraying a confidence.

"By the way," Bart said, "you'll need some time off if you're going to do the serial for the spring dawn program. Have you thought about that?"

She hadn't, but now that she did think about it, she didn't feel that the task was one requiring any special arrangements. She might take a day or two off to get it started, of course. After that she could sandwich it in between other duties here at the office.

When she explained that to Bart, he shook his head. "This contract is too important to play with, Laura," he said. Personally, I think you should get away from the city entirely. You know how you write best, so work it out for yourself; but get over the notion that you can do it in your spare time. The atmosphere of an office isn't conducive to good writing. Dale's place would be ideal if Hannah wasn't forever cluttering it up with her nitwit friends."

Laura smiled. "I doubt if Dale would approve, even if Hannah and her friends were not there."

"Of course he would. The man's lonely. He would be flattered if you told him you wanted to spend a few weeks as a house guest."

The smile widened. "I'll make it a point to tell him the moment I see him tonight."

"Do," Bart said. "If you don't, I will."

"Don't you dare."

He laughed. "Well, enjoy yourself. And I'll be there tomorrow night open for a day with a very important fellow."

"Tomorrow night? It might be managed. Who is the important fellow, may I ask?"

"Gentleman by the name of Ford," Bart said soberly. "And I might warn you he has something on his mind, so—be prepared."

Leaving the office alone twenty minutes later, Laura remembered Bart's words and, with them, something that had been in his eyes when they were uttered. It was not hard to guess what he had warned her against and for the first time she found herself thinking of Bartley Ford as a possible means of escape from a hopelessly muddled life. She did not love him but she did admire him and it was not inconceivable that they might work out a mutually satisfactory partnership. She thought: I'll be honest with him and, if, knowing how I feel, he still—

Suddenly blushing, she willed the thought, unfinished, out of her mind. She could never do it, of course. It was enough that she had wrecked her own life; certainly nothing could ever persuade her to run the risk of ruining him as well.

She left the elevator on the ground floor and was making her way toward the street when a slim figure pushed through the crowd and clutched her arm. She saw that it was Hannah Cromwell. She tried to ignore the drunken look of the girl's eyes.

"How are you, Hannah?" she said pleasantly. "It's nice seeing you."

Hannah said in a voice edged with menace, "What I have to say to you will take exactly ten seconds. Stay away from Bart. Stay completely away from Bart or you'll have plenty of reason to wish you had."

Obviously she had meant to say that and walk away, but Laura caught her arm. "Wait, Hannah," she said evenly, "I want to talk to you. Will you walk along with me a little way?"

Hannah's eyes blazed. "I don't want to talk to you, now or ever," she said between closed teeth. "Let go of my arm."

It was a command and a challenge, but Laura's finger tightened their grip. "Please listen to me, Hannah," she said quietly. "I want to be your friend. I am your friend. If only—"

She said no more, for with her free hand Hannah suddenly slapped her across the mouth, jerked herself free and was gone.

Looking at Dale Cromwell across the little table at dinner, Laura remembered Bart's saying Dale was one of the loneliest men he knew. Now as he sat there telling her, clumsily, with obvious reluctance, of Hannah's strange conduct, he seemed to her not only the loneliest man she had ever known but the most pathetic.

"It is not a thing that can be boiled down to so many words," Dale said, gravely. "In fact, what concerns me most is not what has happened already but what may happen at any moment. If you could see her in one of those violent moods, you would understand what I mean."

Laura nodded. "I have seen her," she said.

"You have?"

"Yes. Today. She was waiting for me when I left the office this afternoon."

Dale was frowning, uneasy. "You mean she was unpleasant?"

"It doesn't matter; you must believe me when I say that," Laura answered. "I'm telling you this because I want you to know that I do understand." She said, "Hannah warned me to stay away from Bart."

"I've been afraid of something like this since you were at the house," Dale said. "Sometimes I suspect she really is in love with Bart. Was that all? You didn't answer her?"

"Yes, I did, unfortunately. I was trying to tell her I wanted to be her friend. I had to hold her arm to make her stay and listen and she resented that. She slapped my face."

She saw the pain in Dale's eyes. "If that hadn't happened," she said, "I'm afraid I would never have been able to help you because I had found Hannah a charming and fairly normal girl and I would have been more inclined to blame you than your daughter. As it is—"

"If you could only know how sorry I am," Dale said, heavily. "How could she do it?"

"Please don't think about that any more," Laura said. "When you asked me to dinner, you had something definite in mind."

He shook his head. "It is no use now. I had hoped to persuade you to spend a week or two with us so that you and Hannah could get to know each other. That way you might have influenced her. But after what you have just told me, that, of course, would be out of the question."

"Yes, I'm afraid it would," Laura agreed. "I couldn't very well go to your home as a guest if Hannah didn't want me there."

Nothing more was said for a space of minutes. Dale pretended to be eating. Laura said at last, "I suppose you couldn't convince Hannah that I do want to be her friend?"

Dale looked up, puzzled. "But you could hardly want that after what occurred this afternoon."

TARZAN AND THE FIRES OF TOHR No. 2

That weird, half-animal, half-human cry left the travelers worried and wondering. The Chinese continued with their work of making camp. Major Burton and Perry went out to gather firewood and search for water. As soon as they had gone Janette turned to Dr. Wong Tai.

"Tell me frankly, Dr. Wong, are we lost? Uncle Jim and Perry won't admit it." The Chinese smiled, a thin, suave smile that was a mask for his inner thoughts. "It is better," he said, "to leave all things to their natural course, and not interfere with destiny."

"You're quibbling—chasing the devil around a bush." "Which is much better," Dr. Wong chuckled, "than letting him catch us. Have no fear, my child. Backed by a reasonable amount of activity on the part of our protecting ancestors, we shall find our way home."

Soon the others returned with wood, and with news of a water-hole a few yards away. As they began to build a fire, Janette suddenly screamed. "Look! There! At the edge of a clearing. A face. A monstrous yellow face—staring at me! Oh, how horrible!"

PATENT CASE SUITS 'Battle' Ends Naval Games

President Roosevelt's Flagship Sails for Rendezvous in Caribbean To Talk Over Results.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The cruiser Houston and battleship Pennsylvania, with President Roosevelt and top ranking naval officers aboard, sailed for a rendezvous in the Caribbean today to talk over the results of the most important war games ever held by the fleet in the south Atlantic.

While no word from the Houston, the President's flagship, was received at temporary White House offices here during the day, latest advice said he planned the rendezvous at Culebra, tiny island 30 miles southeast of Puerto Rico, after witnessing a scheduled "major fleet engagement" this morning.

The main bodies of the "Black" and "White" fleets were believed to have clashed somewhere north of Puerto Rico for the first time since the continental defense maneuvers began more than a week ago.

Prior to this, the Houston had reported, the mimic warfare had involved search problems, raids conducted by planes, destroyers, cruisers and submarines.

The Houston was actually a unit of the "Black" defending forces under command of Vice Admiral Adolphus Andrews, the critical point of the maneuvers.

The "White" attacking fleet was in command of Admiral E. C. Kalbfuss.

Aboard the Houston with the President as she headed for Culebra was Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations. On the Pennsylvania was Admiral C. C. Bloch, commander in chief of the United States fleet and war game umpire.

Under the President makes some comments sooner the actual results of the maneuvers may not be known for weeks.

NAVAL MANEUVERS
NEAR NEAR PUERTO RICO
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A decisive naval engagement, believed "fought" within 100 miles of Puerto Rico, brought an end to the United States navy's maneuvers in Caribbean waters today.

Admiral Claude C. Bloch ordered the opposing White and Black fleets to cease their activities in connection with "Problem 20" and return to their bases.

The navy continued its customary secrecy with respect to the war games and gave no indication whether the attacking "White" fleet defending "Black" fleet had scored an advantage.

Jurist Hangs Self Treating Stiff Neck
CARSON CITY, Nev., Feb. 27. (UP)—Judge Benjamin W. Coleman, 67, for 25 years a member of the Nevada Supreme Court, suffered chronic pain from a stiff neck.

Stretching his neck afforded him some measure of relief. His body was found today, dangling from a strap in a fuel shed behind his home.
